Sinatra Case Break Hinted

LBJ Gives Defense Assurance

Economy Drive Will Not Damage Military Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson assured congressional leaders of both parties Tuesday he intends to keep American military power strong enough to survive a surprise attack and be able to destroy the enemy.

While he is pressing for economies in the Pentagon and all through the government, he was reported on good authority to have told Republican and Democratic chiefs of the Senate and House that any economizing in no way will damage basic military power of the nation.

Johnson set up and attended a briefing for the congressional leaders on the latest estimates of the relative strength of U.S. and Soviet military forces now and as forecast through the 1960s.

"The President," a White House statement said, "emphasized that the United States military program will continue to provide for a strategic force sufficiently large to absorb a surprise attack and survive with sufficient power to be capable of destroying the aggressor."

Fundamental Policy

This has been fundamental American policy for years. But Johnson chose to stress it again at a time when he is getting the federal budget into shape for transmitting to Congress next month.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced after the briefing that the Dyna-Soar manned space glider project is being canceled. He ordered the Air Force to develop a manned military space laboratory that would orbit the earth.

McNamara said the new project, coupled with related research, will provide greater knowledge about man's capability for sustained life in space, at a saving of about $100 million.

In spite of Johnson's demands for frugality, there are some built-in increases that have to be worked into the budget. And Johnson has let it be known that it may be impossible to hold the total below a record $102 billion. The highest budget now on record is the $98.8 billion President John F. Kennedy asked for the present fiscal year which ends next June 30.

Budget Requests Weighed

Johnson went into a decision-making session Tuesday on a broad range of budget requests. The objective was to fix the final spending figures for such departments as Treasury and Justice and for a string of agencies, such as the Federal Communications and Power Commissions, the Veterans and Small Business Administrations, and the Federal Aviation and the U.S. Information agencies.

Conferences on the budget and with the congressional leaders preceded a ceremonial interlude —the presentation to Johnson of commemorative stamps issued by India, South Korea and Ghana in honor of the late Eleanor Roosevelt.

Johnson also nudged congressional leaders again on civil rights and tax cutting legislation, the two major items for which Kennedy was pushing and the two top items on Johnson's program.

He did this in a regular Tuesday morning breakfast session with Democratic chiefs of the House and Senate.

College Aid Bill Is Sent To President

Authorizes Funds For Both Public, Private Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress sent to President Johnson Tuesday a $1.2-billion education bill authorizing federal funds for the first time to aid construction at both public and private four-year and junior colleges.

Final approval came on a 54-27 roll call vote in the Senate, with 37 Democrats and 17 Republicans voting for, 17 Democrats and 10 Republicans against.

The measure, endorsed by Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy before his death, will help build classrooms, laboratories and libraries to meet the expected doubling of college enrollments in this decade.

All 2,100 of the nation's colleges and universities are eligible for the grant and loan funds. Preference will be given to those planning to expand enrollment.

Hailed by Democratic leaders as the most important new administration program to clear Congress this year, it is expected to be followed soon by another major education bill.

The latter, agreed on by House and Senate conferees Tuesday, authorizes $1.56 billion for vocational education and college student loans and extends the impacted areas program aiding school districts glutted with children whose parents work at nearby federal institutions.

The vocational bill is expected to be called up in the House later in the week. It is a compromise between a $3.2-billion, five-year Senate version and $450 million voted by the House but limited to vocational grants.

Kidnap Area Roadblocks Discontinued

FBI Source Says Developments In Hunt 'Optimistic'

STATELINE, Calif. (AP) — Armed roadblocks, set up after Frank Sinatra Jr. was kidnaped Sunday night, were removed Tuesday by the Nevada Highway Patrol.

The new development stirred hopes the 19-year-old son of the millionaire entertainer might turn up soon unharmed.

The patrol began to clear away the roadblocks in the snow-clad Lake Tahoe area within an hour after Sinatra Sr. was called to a conference with the FBI in Reno.

Afterward, an FBI source said there were developments in the case and they were "optimistic."

Sinatra Sr., who had stuck by a telephone at a hotel in Reno since early Monday, left the hotel for the first time to confer with Dean Elson, Nevada's FBI agent in charge at his office across the Truckee River.

Reno agent Max Wilson was asked what that meant.

"We have had some developments; I can say nothing beyond that," he replied.

Sinatra Ready To Make Deal

Sinatra went back to his telephone vigil. Earlier he had been reported by a spokesman as saying he was "willing to make any deal with no questions asked."

No ransom demand has been reported.

Fears had mounted as the manhunt spread through Lake Tahoe's mountains for the missing singer.

"Frank is willing to make any deal with no questions asked," said the spokesman Jim Mahoney, Sinatra's press agent.

The FBI Tuesday clamped silence on the huge search "until something happens."

"We have a job to do," explained Curtis O. Lynum, boss of 30 agents working with scores of sheriff's deputies since the Sunday night abduction. Two gunmen who burst into his motel room were reported to have demanded, "Where is the money?"

Fears Felt For Life

"I've always had a fear of kidnaping," said Sinatra Sr. who spent a sleepless night by a telephone—as urged by the FBI —in a hotel at Reno, 65 miles northeast.

"Certainly there are fears for the life of young Sinatra," said Sheriff Ernest Carlson in whose area the kidnaping occurred. "There always is in every kidnaping."

Sinatra's press relations man scoffed at reports the entertainer has been gathering ransom money.

Monday night, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy telephoned from Washington to assure Sinatra Sr. that all resources of the Justice Department were ready for use.

Other calls came from Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, and California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The same heavy snows which earlier prevented Sinatra Sr. from motoring the 65 miles to Stateline from Reno hampered the cold-shivering search.

Pope To Make Peace Appeal In Bethlehem

VATICAN CITY (AP)—At the birthplace of Christ, Pope Paul VI plans to make a major appeal to all mankind for peace and unity.

An informed Vatican source said Tuesday the pontiff, visiting both Israel and Jordan on his Holy Land tour, will deliver a major speech in Bethlehem on Jan. 6.

The Vatican remained silent on a proposal by Patriarch Athenagoras, spiritual leader of the Orthodox Church, for a Christian summit meeting in Jerusalem. The Pope dispatched an emissary to Athenagoras with details on the Holy Land trip, but a Vatican source said the emissary had no instructions to arrange a meeting.

Details of the Pope's tentative schedule, from Vatican sources, said he will leave Rome at dawn Jan. 4 and return at sunset Jan. 6.

The Pope will celebrate at least three Masses in the Holy Land—one at the Church of the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem soon after his arrival Jan. 4; his regular daily Mass Jan. 5; and a Pontifical Mass at the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, Jan. 6, Epiphany Day.

He will cross the armed Israel - Jordan border twice, through the Mandelbaum Gate, on Jan. 5, going to and from Israel.

He will spend about 12 hours in Israel that day, driving to such biblical sites as Nazareth and Galilee.

His Mass in Bethlehem on the Epiphany will be followed by the major speech appealing for religious and political harmony in the world.

No Roman Catholic pontiff and no Orthodox patriarch have met since the great schism between Catholicism and Orthodoxy in the 11th century.

Holy Water Puts Out JFK Grave Eternal Flame

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The eternal flame on President Kennedy's grave flickered out for about one minute Tuesday due to a freakish accident.

A group of children was visiting the grave when the cap came off a bottle of holy water.

"A stream of water hit the flame directly, extinguishing it," John Metzler, superintendent of the Arlington National Cemetery reported. "An attendant relighted the flame immediately. I estimate it was out for only one minute."

Metzler was at a loss to explain how a small amount of water could have extinguished a flame which has continued to burn in heavy rains and high winds.

Johnson Visits House Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made an unexpected visit to the Capitol Tuesday night, spending 35 to 40 minutes with House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and other House leaders.

"It was just a social visit," McCormack told newsmen after the President left.

McCormack said that Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., the Democratic majority leader, and Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., the party whip, were among those present.

"The President is one of us," McCormack said. "He served in both branches of the Congress. He just dropped in and we are happy—proud — to see him."

Much Of Nation Gets First Real Taste Of Winter

By United Press International

A wide-ranging arctic blast Tuesday raised blizzard and tornado warnings on the Great Plains, dumped school-closing snows on sections of the East, and cheered skiers in the Rockies.

The mercury plummeted to 8 below zero on the northern plains and many sections of the country got their first real foretaste of winter.

Drifts stacked 3 to 4 feet deep in Somerset County, Pennsylvania, slugged by a 12-to-18-inch snow fall, and seven districts closed their schools. Highways were blocked.

Residents of Erie County, New York, battled 10 inches of snow. Five inches of fresh snow in northern Ohio forced some schools to close between Cleveland and the Pennsylvania line.

Blizzard warnings were hoisted in Kansas, Nebraska and the Oklahoma Panhandle as a storm center over the southern Rockies battered the high plains. Up to 10 inches of snow was expected in western and central Kansas by Wednesday morning.

The Weather Bureau at Denver, Colo., called the storm boiling up in the Rockies a major winter storm.

South of the blizzard area, tornado warnings were hoisted in west and north Texas and southwest Oklahoma.

The late-autumn storms took a growing toll of lives. At least 18 deaths were attributed to the weather since the wintry blast rode out of Canada over the weekend and at least six other persons perished in cold weather fires.

Indiana counted 7 dead, Minnesota and New York 3 each, Illinois and Pennsylvania 2 each and Missouri 1.

Col. Yeager Has Brush With Death

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Col. Charles E. (Chuck) Yeager, the first man to crack the sound barrier, narrowly escaped death Tuesday when he parachuted from an experimental jet plane as it plummeted toward earth in an uncontrollable spin.

Yeager, commandant of the Aerospace Research Pilot School, suffered facial burns but apparently was not seriously hurt, the Air Force said.

An Air Force spokesman said Yeager's injuries were "painful," and included first and second degree burns on the left side of his face and neck, as well as third degree burns on the thumb and fingertips of his left hand. He will be hospitalized a few days.

"He feels fine," despite the injuries, an Air Force officer said.

Yeager was flying an NF104A, a souped up rocket-augmented fighter to train pilots for the X15 and space re-entry missions, when the aircraft went into a spin at about 90,000 feet.

The Air Force said the aircraft was only 6,000 feet from the ground when Yeager gave up efforts to regain control, and ejected. The plane crashed near a busy intersection about five miles north of Mojave.

Texas Gov. Connally Reenters Hospital

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Gov. John Connally, shot while riding in the same automobile as President John F. Kennedy when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., entered a hospital Tuesday for treatment of an inflammation in his right leg.

Physicians said he probably will be in the hospital for four or five days, but no surgery is contemplated.

Connally spent more than a week in a Dallas hospital from a bullet wound which entered his chest, collapsed a lung, pierced his wrist and embedded in his right leg. He returned here last Thursday.

"His condition is not considered serious," an announcement by doctors said Tuesday.

No Korean Clash

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A U.N. Command spokesman, Col. George Creel, denied Tuesday a report that U.S. and North Korean troops exchanged gunfire on the armistice front.

Bolivians Request U.S. Arms In Crisis

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian government Tuesday night asked the United States for arms — including planes— that may be needed for attack on Communist-led tin miners holding four American and other hostages.

The government handed a list of military requirements to the U.S. Embassy for relay to Washington.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has offered Bolivia full assistance in efforts to obtain the release of more than 20 hostages seized Friday by the miners.

There was no indication, however, that any military attack was contemplated immediately.

President Victor Paz Estenssoro was believed moving cautiously behind the scenes in seeking to get the hostages freed without touching off what could turn into wholesale slaughter.

The miners told the government they would not release the hostages until the government freed two jailed Communist union leaders, old-time trouble makers in the country's nationalized tin industry.

In addition to the Americans, 16 Bolivian mining technicians, a German and a Dutchman were held. It was understood here that two or three Canadians and two Swedes were threatened or temporarily held but now are free.

In Washington, the State Department made a formal protest to the Bolivian government over the seizure of the Americans. A State Department spokesman said the protest was made even though "we recognize and appreciate the extensive effort the Bolivian government is making to secure the release of the hostages."

Oswald Shirt Threads On Gun

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brown threads caught on an assassin's rifle helped to weave what the FBI considers a conclusive case against Lee Harvey Oswald as the lone slayer of President John F. Kennedy.

Government sources disclosed Tuesday that the threads, identified as from Oswald's shirt, were found snagged in the mechanism of the Italian-made carbine which also bore his palm print.

Meantime the President's bipartisan investigating commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren began its analysis of the still-secret, five-volume FBI report on the Nov. 22 assassination in Dallas.

The commission also:

Won from Congress the power to force witnesses to testify against their will, under immunity from self-incrimination. The House voted unanimously for the extraordinary subpoena power, as the Senate did Monday.

Appointed J. Lee Rankin, former solicitor general of the United States, to be its general counsel for the top-level inquiry.

Johnson Would Honor Kennedy With Half-Dollar

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to honor the memory of John F. Kennedy by authorizing a new 50-cent piece bearing the late President's portrait

If approved, the new coin would replace the 15-year-old Benjamin Franklin half-dollar and would be the first of the denomination to bear a likeness of a former president.

In his message to Congress, Johnson indicated his request was prompted in part by similar appeals from "many Americans" in letters written since Kennedy's assassination on Nov. 22.

The face of the new half-dollar would bear a likeness of the Kennedy profile. On the reverse would appear an adaption of the presidential seal.

Congress Will Begin New Session Jan. 7

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said Tuesday the next session of Congress will open Tuesday, Jan. 7.

Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, said the last session of the current 88th Congress would come to a close Friday, Dec. 20 "or possibly Saturday, Dec. 21, if we get in a snarl."

Nobel Prizes Given Three Americans As Kennedy Is Eulogized As Crusader

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Three Americans received Nobel prizes in ceremonies Tuesday in Oslo and Stockholm, Sweden. In the Swedish capital, the late President John F. Kennedy was eulogized as a crusader for the ideals of Alfred Nobel, whose fortune created the annual awards.

Dr. Linus Pauling was given the delayed peace prize for 1962 at Oslo University. He heard himself praised as a man who had fought for nuclear disarmament in the face of powerful criticism and defended against charges of pro-Communist leanings.

In reply the research chemist from the California Institute of Technology said the world was moving toward the day when the only war remaining will be "the one against disease and human suffering."

The white-haired professor once accused by the U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee of "consistent pro-Soviet bias," was roundly applauded as he stepped forward to accept the prize from Chairman Gunnar Jahn of the Storting (Parliament) Nobel Prize Committee.

In Stockholm's Concern Hall, Chairman Arne Tiselius of the Nobel Foundation characterized Kennedy as "a man who in word and deed worked for the same ideals" as Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite who left a fortune to promote peace, science and literature.

Then in solemn ceremonies, King Gustav VI Adolf handed out of awards for literature, medicine, physics and chemistry.

Hungarian-born Dr. Eugene Wigner of Princeton University was honored for basic research on the nature of the atom's nucleus and its particles. He received half the $51,000 physics prize.

The other half is shared by Dr. Maria Goeppert Mayer of the University of California at La Jolla and Prof. Hans A. Jensen of Heidelberg for their findings on atomic shell structure.

Other prize winners are: literature, Giorgos Seferis, Greek poet; medicine, Sir John Eccles of Canberra, Australia, A. L. Hodgkin of Cambridge, England and Andrew Huxley of London, for nerve research; chemistry, Prof. Karl Ziegler of Germany and Dr. Giulio Natta of Italy for research producing new chemical combinations for plastics.

U.S. Plans Manned Space Lab; Dyna-Soar Dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With President Johnson's approval, the Defense Department Tuesday announced a giant program to orbit a manned space laboratory the size of a small house trailer by early 1968.

The laboratory will be designed so that astronauts can move about freely inside without a space suit "and conduct observations and experiments in the laboratory over a period of up to a month."

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, announcing the move at a surprise news conference, also confirmed that he has killed the Air Force's Dyna-Soar spaceship project project on which $400 million already has been spent.

The Air Force instead will be in sole charge of the new program to be known as the near-earth Manned Orbiting Laboratary (MOL) project.

McNamara emphasized that the orbiting laboratory will have military objectives, and will be wholly separate from the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Apollo moon-landing effort.

"The MOL program, which will consist of an orbiting pressurized cylinder approximately the size of a small hour trailer, will increase the Defense Department effort to determine the military usefullness of man in space," McNamara said.

The first manned flight of MOL is expected late in 1967 or early in 1968.

Sabotage Of 61 AF Jets Probed

WILLIAMS AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz. (UPI)—Sixty-one jet training planes were discovered sabotaged at this desert Air Force base and an immediate investigation was launched, base officials said Tuesday.

Wing Commander Col. William C. Lindley Jr. said electric wires leading to the gears of the T38 supersonic trainers were cut.

He said the planes were expected to be put back into operation late Tuesday and the base's training schedule would not be seriously disrupted.

Lidley said the damage "could have had very serious and dangerous consequences had it not been discovered" in pre-flight checks Monday.

The planes carry no classified equipment and are not armed.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and other military security agents immediately began investigating the incident.

An Air Force spokesman said Yeager's injuries were "painful," and included first and second degree burns on the left side of his face and neck, as well as third degree burns on the thumb and fingertips of his left hand. He will be hospitalized a few days.

"He feels fine," despite the injuries, an Air Force officer said.

Yeager was flying an NF104A, a souped up rocket-augmented fighter to train pilots for the X15 and space re-entry missions, when the aircraft went into a spin at about 90,000 feet.

The Air Force said the aircraft was only 6,000 feet from the ground when Yeager gave up efforts to regain control, and ejected. The plane crashed near a busy intersection about five miles north of Mojave.

Texas Gov. Connally Reenters Hospital

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Gov. John Connally, shot while riding in the same automobile as President John F. Kennedy when Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., entered a hospital Tuesday for treatment of an inflammation in his right leg.

Physicians said he probably will be in the hospital for four or five days, but no surgery is contemplated.

Connally spent more than a week in a Dallas hospital from a bullet wound which entered his chest, collapsed a lung, pierced his wrist and embedded in his right leg. He returned here last Thursday.

"His condition is not considered serious," an announcement by doctors said Tuesday.

No Korean Clash

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A U.N. Command spokesman, Col. George Creel, denied Tuesday a report that U.S. and North Korean troops exchanged gunfire on the armistice front.

Bolivians Request U.S. Arms In Crisis

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian government Tuesday night asked the United States for arms — including planes— that may be needed for attack on Communist-led tin miners holding four American and other hostages.

The government handed a list of military requirements to the U.S. Embassy for relay to Washington.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has offered Bolivia full assistance in efforts to obtain the release of more than 20 hostages seized Friday by the miners.

There was no indication, however, that any military attack was contemplated immediately.

President Victor Paz Estenssoro was believed moving cautiously behind the scenes in seeking to get the hostages freed without touching off what could turn into wholesale slaughter.

The miners told the government they would not release the hostages until the government freed two jailed Communist union leaders, old-time trouble makers in the country's nationalized tin industry.

In addition to the Americans, 16 Bolivian mining technicians, a German and a Dutchman were held. It was understood here that two or three Canadians and two Swedes were threatened or temporarily held but now are free.

In Washington, the State Department made a formal protest to the Bolivian government over the seizure of the Americans. A State Department spokesman said the protest was made even though "we recognize and appreciate the extensive effort the Bolivian government is making to secure the release of the hostages."

Oswald Shirt Threads On Gun

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brown threads caught on an assassin's rifle helped to weave what the FBI considers a conclusive case against Lee Harvey Oswald as the lone slayer of President John F. Kennedy.

Government sources disclosed Tuesday that the threads, identified as from Oswald's shirt, were found snagged in the mechanism of the Italian-made carbine which also bore his palm print.

Meantime the President's bipartisan investigating commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren began its analysis of the still-secret, five-volume FBI report on the Nov. 22 assassination in Dallas.

The commission also:

Won from Congress the power to force witnesses to testify against their will, under immunity from self - incrimination. The House voted unanimously for the extraordinary subpoena power, as the Senate did Monday.

Appointed J. Lee Rankin, former solicitor general of the United States, to be its general counsel for the top-level inquiry.

Johnson Would Honor Kennedy With Half-Dollar

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to honor the memory of John F. Kennedy by authorizing a new 50-cent piece bearing the late President's portrait

If approved, the new coin would replace the 15-year-old Benjamin Franklin half - dollar and would be the first of the denomination to bear a likeness of a former president.

In his message to Congress, Johnson indicated his request was prompted in part by similar appeals from "many Americans" in letters written since Kennedy's assassination on Nov. 22.

The face of the new half-dollar would bear a likeness of the Kennedy profile. On the reverse would appear an adaption of the presidential seal.

Congress Will Begin New Session Jan. 7

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said Tuesday the next session of Congress will open Tuesday, Jan. 7.

Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, said the last session of the current 88th Congress would come to a close Friday, Dec. 20 "or possibly Saturday, Dec. 21, if we get in a snarl."

Nobel Prizes Given Three Americans As Kennedy Is Eulogized As Crusader

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Three Americans received Nobel prizes in ceremonies Tuesday in Oslo and Stockholm, Sweden. In the Swedish capital, the late President John F. Kennedy was eulogized as a crusader for the ideals of Alfred Nobel, whose fortune created the annual awards.

Dr. Linus Pauling was given the delayed peace prize for 1962 at Oslo University. He heard himself praised as a man who had fought for nuclear disarmament in the face of powerful criticism and defended against charges of pro-Communist leanings.

In reply the research chemist from the California Institute of Technology said the world was moving toward the day when the only war remaining will be "the one against disease and human suffering."

The white-haired professor once accused by the U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee of "consistent pro-Soviet bias," was roundly applauded as he stepped forward to accept the prize from Chairman Gunnar Jahn of the Storting (Parliament) Nobel Prize Committee.

In Stockholm's Concern Hall, Chairman Arne Tiselius of the Nobel Foundation characterized Kennedy as "a man who in word and deed worked for the same ideals" as Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite who left a fortune to promote peace, science and literature.

Then in solemn ceremonies, King Gustav VI Adolf handed out of awards for literature, medicine, physics and chemistry.

Hungarian-born Dr. Eugene Wigner of Princeton University was honored for basic research on the nature of the atom's nucleus and its particles. He received half the $51,000 physics prize.

The other half is shared by Dr. Maria Goeppert Mayer of the University of California at La Jolla and Prof. Hans A. Jensen of Heidelberg for their findings on atomic shell structure.

Other prize winners are: literature, Giorgos Seferis, Greek poet; medicine, Sir John Eccles of Canberra, Australia, A. L. Hodgkin of Cambridge, England and Andrew Huxley of London, for nerve research; chemistry, Prof. Karl Ziegler of Germany and Dr. Giulio Natta of Italy for research producing new chemical combinations for plastics.

U.S. Plans Manned Space Lab; Dyna-Soar Dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With President Johnson's approval, the Defense Department Tuesday announced a giant program to orbit a manned space laboratory the size of a small house trailer by early 1968.

The laboratory will be designed so that astronauts can move about freely inside without a space suit "and conduct observations and experiments in the laboratory over a period of up to a month."

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, announcing the move at a surprise news conference, also confirmed that he has killed the Air Force's Dyna-Soar spaceship project project on which $400 million already has been spent.

The Air Force instead will be in sole charge of the new program to be known as the near-earth Manned Orbiting Laboratary (MOL) project.

McNamara emphasized that the orbiting laboratory will have military objectives, and will be wholly separate from the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Apollo moon-landing effort.

"The MOL program, which will consist of an orbiting pressurized cylinder approximately the size of a small hour trailer, will increase the Defense Department effort to determine the military usefullness of man in space," McNamara said.

The first manned flight of MOL is expected late in 1967 or early in 1968.

Sabotage Of 61 AF Jets Probed

WILLIAMS AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz. (UPI)—Sixty - one jet training planes were discovered sabotaged at this desert Air Force base and an immediate investigation was launched, base officials said Tuesday.

Wing Commander Col. William C. Lindley Jr. said electric wires leading to the gears of the T38 supersonic trainers were cut.

He said the planes were expected to be put back into operation late Tuesday and the base's training schedule would not be seriously disrupted.

Lidley said the damage "could have had very serious and dangerous consequences had it not been discovered" in pre-flight checks Monday.

The planes carry no classified equipment and are not armed.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and other military security agents immediately began investigating the incident.

Many Of Jetliner Victims Never Will Be Identified

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — Many of the 81 persons who perished in the explosion and crash of a jet airliner Sunday night will never be identified from their remains, Maryland's chief medical examiner said Tuesday.

"We've got about a dozen of them which I'm prepared to certify did die in that plane crash," said Dr. Russell S. Fisher, the medical examiner.

"We most certainly won't get them all. There will be a substantial number who will never be identified."

The four-engine Boeing 707 of Pan American World Airways, with eight crewmen and 73 passengers aboard, was en route from Puerto Rico to Philadelphia. Just short of its destination, it exploded and fell from the skies in fiery fragments.

Flight 214 was bucking a thunderstorm at the time and, because of the weather, was in a holding pattern of the Philadelphia International Airport where it was to land.

It crashed in a muddy cornfield near the Maryland-Delaware border, about 15 miles southwest of Wilmington, Del.

To avoid making families distraught, Dr. Fisher said he would delay as long as possible turning the remains over to Pan American or the families. When identification is released, Pan Am said, it will notify next of kin immediately.

Dr. Fisher told a news conference that he and his staff of 10 pathologists will remain on the job here all week. All told, there are about 100 persons working on the unpleasant task, including FBI agents, state troopers and Navy medical corpsmen.

The Civil Aeronautics Board's on-scene investigation probably will take another two weeks.

In Washington, CAB investigators took apart the plane's camera-size flight recorder and began studying the metal tape which may shed light on the cause of the crash.

The key part of the equipment is the aluminum alloy tape which continuously records an airliner's speed, altitude, vertical acceleration and heading, on a timed scale.

The tape resembles the silvered paper from a candy bar. Investigators handled it with tweezers as they attempted to patch the torn parts.

An observer said it might take three or four days to get useful information from it. He said it was damaged "but we don't know how badly yet."

Studebaker 'Bled To Death' At South Bend

NEW YORK (AP)—The head of Studebaker Corp., explaining plans for a permanent, pre-Christmas shutdown of its main auto plant at South Bend, said Tuesday "we were being bled to death there."

Randolph H. Guthrie, board chairman of the pioneer auto concern, said losses in "trying to stay alive in the car business," had mounted to $40 million since 1959.

The decision meant an abrupt loss of livelihood for several thousands of employes, many of them in their 50s with 25 to 30 years on the job.

For them, it cast a pall over the holiday seasons.

Over the country, Studebaker dealers — there are about 2,000 — expressed shock over the prospective halt in U.S. automaking operations, and limiting of assemblies to a relatively small Canadian factory.

"We can't panic, we have a big investment with three outlets," said Roger Adams, a Sacramento, Calif., dealer.

Government and community leaders held huddles in Washington and South Bend, seeking answers to the wholesale layoffs. They produced no immediate concrete results.

A few gleams of hope for some of the workers emerged from a news conference conducted in New York by Guthrie, Byers A. Burlingame, Studebaker president, and other company officials.

Of the more than 8,000 persons on the Studebaker payroll before recent cutbacks, it appeared that possibly 2,000 could expect from a few months to more than a year's employment.

Ruby Trial Judge Studied Law Almost By Accident

EDITOR'S NOTE — All the world will have its eyes on Texas when the man who killed the accused assassin of President Kennedy is tried on a murder charge. Foreign ideas of American justice will be influenced by what happens then—and so will American ideas of Texas justice. Here is a look at the judge to whom the case has fallen.

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The biggest murder case before the world today has landed in the court of a veteran judge who went to law school almost by accident.

The case is the trial of Jack Ruby, the strip-joint owner who shot Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Ruby could get the death penalty.

The courtroom is tiny, with seats for only 58 spectators. Pine paneling is so yellow it must have been painful to the eye when it was new. Now it has been mellowed by time and tobacco smoke. It is in the County Records building, at the intersection where President Kennedy was shot.

The judge is Joe B. Brown, a big, slow-moving, soft - spoken man who likes a relaxed atmosphere in his State Criminal District Court.

He enrolled in law school 32 years ago on a friend's casual suggestion.

Judge Brown is acutely aware —as, of course, any judge would be—that the eyes of the world will be focused on his courtroom.

There has been argument whether the trial should be covered live by television. It's up to Judge Brown, and so far he won't comment.

In fact, he will say nothing in advance about the trial except this: "I've been praying over it."

Then, an afterthought: "But that's the way any judge ought to feel about any trial."

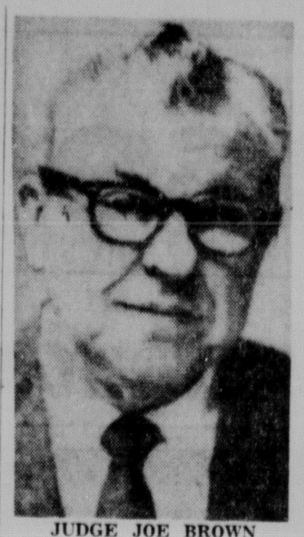

Judge Brown tries to stay relaxed inside and outside his courtroom—partly, he explains, because he has had four heart attacks.

When you walk into his chambers for a visit, likely as not he'll say: "Put your feet up on the desk and let's be comfortable while we talk." And he sets the example.

Many people get the idea Judge Brown is over 6 feet tall. Actually, he is 5 feet, 11 inches. The idea of extra height comes from his bulk, his erect carriage and his shock of iron gray hair. He is 55 years old.

Reporters and lawyers who regularly work in Judge Browns court say he runs it informally.

He permits spectators and principals to smoke. Only recently he and other district judges decided to wear judicial robes.

Belli Will Lead Ruby's Defense

DALLAS (UPI)—Melvin Belli, spectacularly successful San Francisco lawyer, took over the defense for self-appointed executioner Jack Ruby Tuesday and said Ruby will plead innocent by reason of insanity to the slaying of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Belli, famed for his courtroom fireworks, said he has no objections to live television coverage of the trial.

"We will be ready by the scheduled trial date of Feb. 3," he said. "We will plead him not guilty by reason of insanity."

Belli said he may ask for a change of venue to move the trial from Dallas.

Belli, sporting cowboy - type boots and a fur-collared overcoat, visited Ruby in his Dallas County Jail cell along with attorneys Tom Howard of Dallas, Sam S. Brody of Los Angeles and J. H. Tonahill of Jasper, Tex.

British Party Bombed; One Killed, 39 Hurt

ADEN (AP)—A hand grenade was hurled Tuesday at the British high commissioner and his party as they were about to leave Aden Airport for London, killing a woman and wounding 39 other persons.

Sir Kennedy Trevaskis, the high commissioner, escaped with a shrapnel cut on one finger. But three of his aides and an official of the Federation of South Arabia were more seriously injured.

A state of emergency was declared as police pressed a hunt for the bomber, who escaped in the confusion. He might have been a Yemeni or an Arab nationalist. Both revolutionary Yemen and Arab nationalists opposed formation of the British-protected Federation of Aden and the sheikdoms, sultanates and emirates in southern Arabia.

An expert on Middle East affairs, Sir Kennedy planned to head the delegation of federation and British officials to London to discuss plans for elections next year. Instead, he remained behind to direct the investigation.

Witnesses said the bomb had been thrown from a spectators' gallery of an airport building and landed in a flower bed near the official party. Persons in the gallery were quickly rounded up and questioned, but none was arrested.

Mrs. Jamnadas Bhagavanji, 38, of India, who was about to board the plane with her family was wounded fatally in the back.

Maine is named from the ancient province of France of the same name.

COUNSEL — J. Lee Rankin, shown in his New York law office, has been appointed counsel for the commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy. Announcement was made yesterday by Chief Justice Earl Warren, who heads the commission. Rankin, 56, served as solicitor general from 1956 to 1961 and was with the Justice Dept. three years prior to that. (AP Photofax)

Appeals Court Upholds Firing Of Woman Cop

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld Tuesday the action of the Montgomery County police department in dismissing Margaret J. Smith, a patrolwoman, in Dec. 1960.

Miss Smith was dismissed while a probationary employe and was denied a hearing for that reason.

She contended in her appeal from a decision of Montgomery County Circuit Court that the denial of a hearing and prior notice of dismissal were violations of the Montgomery County charter.

However, the high court said the charter "recognizes that a valid distinction may be drawn between employes obtaining permanent status as members of the classified service, and those still on probation."

Md. Seventh In Aid Fund Goods Exports

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — More than $14 million worth of goods financed by foreign aid funds were exported from Maryland during the first ten months of this year.

Maryland ranked seventh among the fifty states during the period, according to figures released by the State Department of Economic Development.

In October, the Agency for International Development financed $1,676,128 in Maryland exports. The state ranked sixth in the nation during October.

Candidate Uses Tape Recorder, Delays Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Use of a tape recorder by a spectator caused a brief delay Tuesday at a hearing on civil defense shelters by a Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, R-Ohio, presiding, noted that it was a public hearing, but asked the spectator to identify himself.

The man said he is Dr. Sylvan M. Shane, a dentist and anesthesiologist from Baltimore.

"I am a Republican candidate for Congress from the 7th Maryland District," Shane said.

This caused Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a committee member, to suggest with a laugh:

"If he's a Republican candidate for Congress then let him put his recorder on the table."

Shane explained later that he opposes the federal shelter proposal as ineffective and a waste of funds and efforts.

Three Perish In Plane Crash

FINDLAY, Ohio (UPI) — A converted B26 airplane owned by the Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla., crashed and burned inside the city limits Tuesday killing its three occupants and narrowly missing a heavily-populated residential area and a gasoline storage plant.

Killed in the crash were James H. Creel, the pilot and William J. Hubbard, the co-pilot, both employes of Phillips, and Ancil B. Leonard, rubber chemical sales director for the huge oil concern. All were residents of Bartlesville.

The plane was en route here from Newark, N.J., to pick up two executives of the Cooper Tire & Rubber Co., President Wayne Brewer and Vice President and Secretary - Treasurer B. E. Esterly, and take them to Amarillo, Tex., for a business meeting.

There were conflicting reports from eyewitnesses as to whether or not the plane exploded before it crashed and burst into flames. The Ohio Highway Patrol said they had talked to several bystanders who said they heard no explosion before the plane crashed.

Hearing Set For Boy Indicted In Murder

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—Arguments over dismissal of a murder indictment against an 11-year-old patient in a state mental hospital will be heard Thursday in circuit court.

The boy, Anthony T. Bielas, and two other inmates of Springfield State Hospital were vindicted last month for the death of Sterling L. Turfle, 53, another patient.

The motion for dismissal was made by Fred Weisgal, Baltimore attorney. His grounds are that the boy does not have the mental capacity to understand the nature of the charge or assist in his defense and was too young to form an intention to commit murder.

Both revolutionary Yemen and Arab nationalists opposed formation of the British-protected Federation of Aden and the sheikdoms, sultanates and emirates in southern Arabia.

An expert on Middle East affairs, Sir Kennedy planned to head the delegation of federation and British officials to London to discuss plans for elections next year. Instead, he remained behind to direct the investigation.

Witnesses said the bomb had been thrown from a spectators' gallery of an airport building and landed in a flower bed near the official party. Persons in the gallery were quickly rounded up and questioned, but none was arrested.

Mrs. Jamnadas Bhagavanji, 38, of India, who was about to board the plane with her family was wounded fatally in the back.

Maine is named from the ancient province of France of the same name.

COUNSEL — J. Lee Rankin, shown in his New York law office, has been appointed counsel for the commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy. Announcement was made yesterday by Chief Justice Earl Warren, who heads the commission. Rankin, 56, served as solicitor general from 1956 to 1961 and was with the Justice Dept. three years prior to that. (AP Photofax)

Md. Seventh In Aid Fund Goods Exports

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — More than $14 million worth of goods financed by foreign aid funds were exported from Maryland during the first ten months of this year.

Maryland ranked seventh among the fifty states during the period, according to figures released by the State Department of Economic Development.

In October, the Agency for International Development financed $1,676,128 in Maryland exports. The state ranked sixth in the nation during October.

Appeals Court Upholds Firing Of Woman Cop

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld Tuesday the action of the Montgomery County police department in dismissing Margaret J. Smith, a patrolwoman, in Dec. 1960.

Miss Smith was dismissed while a probationary employe and was denied a hearing for that reason.

She contended in her appeal from a decision of Montgomery County Circuit Court that the denial of a hearing and prior notice of dismissal were violations of the Montgomery County charter.

However, the high court said the charter "recognizes that a valid distinction may be drawn between employes obtaining permanent status as members of the classified service, and those still on probation."

Maryland School Plan Has Support Of Tawes

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes threw his support solidly Tuesday behind a $16.2 million program to improve Maryland schools.

The plan to be submitted to the 1964 session of the legislature was devised by a committee headed by Sen. Harry R. Hughes, D-Caroline.

It will require a tax increase, and two plans have been suggested.

One would reduce the personal state income tax exemption from $800 to $600 and would bring in about $13 million. A proposal to increase the income tax rate from three per cent to four per cent would raise about $40 million.

Tawes said at his weekly news conference that his decision on how to finance the program would have to wait "until we have completed our budget hearings."

However he said "it is always preferable to have a one-tax program" if one can be developed that provides sufficient funds.

He said the proposal will probably be introduced at the general assembly by the legislative council, but that "it will certainly have my support."

On the matter of congressional redistricting, Tawes said he is sticking by his position that nothing should be done until the 1964 general election, when the people will vote on a redistricting bill passed by the 1963 session of the legislature.

A bill approved by the 1961 session was defeated in 1962 by public vote.

"I've made two honest, conscientious attempts to put through congressional redistricting measures," Tawes said.

I'm going to be a little careful about supporting future proposals because I don't want any more bills brought to a referendum."

However, he said he might reconsider his position if he received legal assurance from Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan that a new bill would knock out the measure which has been petitioned to a referendum.

Fair Price Cut For Kids Rapped

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Maryland official described as unfair Tuesday a decision to reduce the price of admission for New York area children who attend the 1964 World's Fair.

Robert E. Filliettaz, executive director of the Maryland World's Fair Commission, wrote Robert Moses, president of the World's Fair Corp., and New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner that he was "highly indignant at what appears to be a stupid decision."

"We are dismayed," Filliettaz said, "to find that our kids can't go to the fair for the same price as your kids."

Moses and Wagner agreed recently to reduce the admission for New York area school children from 50 cents to 25 cents during school days in May, June, September and October of 1964.

To be eligible, the pupils must be in groups of about 25 and must be accompanied by their teacher.

The fair is scheduled to open in April.

Maryland News In Brief

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes and Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan will speak at the graduation of the 51st recruit class of the Maryland State Police Thursday.

The 70 men to be graduated are the biggest class in the history of the police academy. They are from 17 counties of Maryland.

A new gymnasium also will be dedicated.

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Two pedestrians, four passengers and five drivers were killed in traffic accidents in Maryland last week.

The Maryland State Police said that of the 11 fatalities, alcohol was a contributing factor in three of the deaths, speed in six and driver error in eight.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Joseph Sternberg was named Tuesday manager of research and development for the Baltimore Division of Martin Co.

He will be in charge of studies of materials, life sciences, aerophysics and other areas of research.

Sternberg was chief of the Exterior Ballistics Laboratory at the Army Proving Ground at Aberdeen, Md., before he joined Martin in 1962.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert B. Watts was appointed for the second time Tuesday by Gov. Tawes to Baltimore's Municipal Court.

He was named to the original court in 1961 and lost last year when he ran for the full 10-year term. He was appointed this time to replace William L. K. Barrett who died.

Watts will serve out the Barrett's term until 1966 when he will have to seek election again if he wants to remain a judge.

Killer Sentenced

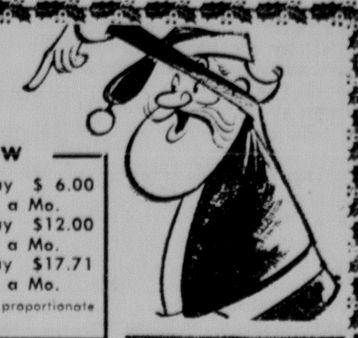

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Ft. Meade soldier was sentenced Tuesday to three years imprisonment for the hammer-slaying in 1962 of his estranged wife.

Spec. 4 Sheldon Foland, 27-year-old Army linguist, had been convicted earlier in the death of Mrs. Sandra Foland, whose battered body was found in her Baltimore home 18 months ago.

The U. S. Military Academy at West Point is America's oldest permanent military post.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't let the yule spirit stop with creative efforts decking the halls.

Remember also the doorway —especially the front doorway.

This, says the American Society of Florists, isn't a mere passageway to be trimmed with bells and a stray piece of holly.

No, ma'am. This Christmas season, the society's experts in decking doorways suggest you try new ways with old traditions.

For example, a colonial house, usually decked in a wreath of holly and fragrant pine, can stand a change. Why not use flat, glossy magnolia leaves to form the traditional circlet? Their sheen and clearly defined shape give an almost sculptured effect.

For added yule spirit, suggest to your florist that he top the wreath with a bow of scarlet velvet ribbon and a cascade of gold Christmas tree balls wired together to form a grape like cluster. Use plenty of the colorful balls and lots of ribbon for a luxurious look.

For a modern house with a flush door, ropes of Christmas greenery in an unusual geometric design are an interesting variation.

Decorate the rope with blue spruce and cypress cones—gilded or spray-painted as you see fit. An occasional Christmas tree ball may be placed here and there for added glitter.

For an informal country house — non-descript design—wicker baskets filled with holly or cryptomeria branches can be fastened to the front door.

Use a quartet of tiny baskets or one large one, depending on the proportions of the doorway.

For best effect, deck the branches with tiny candies wrapped in gaily colored foil or with cones. For an unusual touch, add butterflies fashioned from foil.

If you want to glue a tree to the front door, your florist can make a flat Christmas tree by covering a triangle of florists' foam with sprigs of fir or boxwood.

Decorate the tree with strands of popcorn and cranberries. This is particularly appropriate for a cottage or a small house as it says "Merry Christmas" a simple way.

Another decoration which is adaptable to almost any doorway is a spray of traditional greens, flocked with white, to which are attached a collection of small toy musical instruments.

The only thing to watch here: Make sure the size of the spray is in keeping with the size of the door.

Whatever your choice, you'll be joining in a custom that expresses glad tidings of the Christmas season to every passerby — when you deck your door with holiday trimmings.

Review Of Cuban Policy Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has asked his foreign policy officials to conduct a special review of U.S. policies toward Cuba.

The President, it was learned, asked the State Department to advise whether there is anything further the United States could or should do to isolate Cuba economically, to curb Cuban arms exports to Latin America, or to support anti - Castro groups.

Soviets Accused Of Smuggling Arms

MIAMI (UPI)— Cuban exiles told the Organization of American States Monday that Soviet submarines and fishing trawlers are helping to smuggle Cuban arms to pro-Castro rebels in Latin America.

In a detailed report sent to the OAS the Cuban exile revolutionary council, headed by former Cuban Premier Manuel A. De Varona, charged that "more than 100 Soviet fishing trawlers" plus an unspecified number of Soviet submarines are involved.

✓ 1963 Box Score:

FORD'S TOTAL PERFORMANCE TOUGHNESS DOMINATES THE COMPETITION WORLD!

Ford has chosen the most rugged testing program cars have ever faced . . . full-scale open competition on the rally and racing circuits of the world. This is the dramatic way to show that Fords have changed . . . and the sure way to be certain they keep on changing. Changed? Just look at the record:

STOCK CAR RACING: 2-to-1 margin for Ford — Ford is king of NASCAR competition and Ford Motor Company has the NASCAR Achievement Award to prove it. In the '63 season, special Ford entries won every single race of 500 miles or longer, scored nearly twice as many points as any other make. 500-mile races are the ultimate test of inherent durability and dependability. In two other major stock car racing associations IMCA and MARC, Ford drivers have wrapped up the 1963 championships.

SPORTS CAR ROAD RACING: Ford V-8 power is the new king — Here the Cobra with its special Fairlane engine emerged as the overwhelming leader in one short year. Cobra won the coveted Manufacturer's Trophy in SCCA Class A Production competition by so wide a margin no other cars—U.S. or foreign—were even in sight. And in the two major tests this fall, the Laguna Seca and Riverside races, the new King Cobras dusted off the top "unlimited" cars from all over the world.

RALLY COMPETITION: Manufacturer's Championship — Products of Ford Motor Company and its world-wide affiliates won the 1963 Manufacturer's World Rally Championship. Ford's rally year began when two specially equipped Falcon V-8's startled the automotive world in the brutal 2500-mile Monte Carlo Rallye. Other special Falcon V-8's triumphed in Holland's famed Tulip Rally, and ran away with the Manufacturer's Team Prize in the 4000-mile Trans-Canada Rally.

INDIANAPOLIS: Ford ends an era — Advanced Ford engineering smashed precedent in the classic Indianapolis "500." The first time out, a light alloy version of the Fairlane V-8 design in a Lotus chassis finished second. And the next time, in the Milwaukee "200" it ended the reign of the traditional "Indy" racing car by leading every foot of the way from start to finish.

PERFORMANCE & ECONOMY: New laurels for Ford — The Mobil Economy Run underscored Falcon's years-long reputation for thrift—a Falcon scored first in Class B (medium-engined compacts). And the Pure Oil Performance Trials brought laurels to the big Fords, which walked off with overall wins in Classes I and II for total performance (economy, acceleration and braking).

✓ 1964 Result:

TOTAL PERFORMANCE INSPIRES THE TOUGHEST, SMARTEST CARS FORD EVER BUILT!

Fords have changed—and that's the real reason behind Ford's racing successes. We're now making the longest lasting, best handling cars in our history. The things we've learned from the specially equipped cars we enter in open competition have helped make them that way.

The inherent qualities that make the victorious racing car—road-holding, braking, durability, precision control, resistance to vibration—also make a car safer, stronger, and smoother for highway use.

But prove it to yourself. Take the wheel of any new Ford. Five minutes on the road will show you the kind of total performance no one else can match.

The President, it was learned, asked the State Department to advise whether there is anything further the United States could or should do to isolate Cuba economically, to curb Cuban arms exports to Latin America, or to support anti - Castro groups.

Soviets Accused Of Smuggling Arms

MIAMI (UPI)— Cuban exiles told the Organization of American States Monday that Soviet submarines and fishing trawlers are helping to smuggle Cuban arms to pro-Castro rebels in Latin America.

In a detailed report sent to the OAS the Cuban exile revolutionary council, headed by former Cuban Premier Manuel A. De Varona, charged that "more than 100 Soviet fishing trawlers" plus an unspecified number of Soviet submarines are involved.

FORD'S TOTAL PERFORMANCE TOUGHNESS DOMINATES THE COMPETITION WORLD!

Ford has chosen the most rugged testing program cars have ever faced . . . full-scale open competition on the rally and racing circuits of the world. This is the dramatic way to show that Fords have changed . . . and the sure way to be certain they keep on changing. Changed? Just look at the record:

STOCK CAR RACING: 2-to-1 margin for Ford
Ford is king of NASCAR competition and Ford Motor Company has the NASCAR Achievement Award to prove it. In the '63 season, special Ford entries won every single race of 500 miles or longer, scored nearly twice as many points as any other make. 500-mile races are the ultimate test of inherent durability and dependability. In two other major stock car racing associations IMCA and MARC, Ford drivers have wrapped up the 1963 championships.

SPORTS CAR ROAD RACING: Ford V-8 power is the new king
Here the Cobra with its special Fairlane engine emerged as the overwhelming leader in one short year. Cobra won the coveted Manufacturer's Trophy in SCCA Class A Production competition by so wide a margin no other cars—U.S. or foreign—were even in sight. And in the two major tests this fall, the Laguna Seca and Riverside races, the new King Cobras dusted off the top "unlimited" cars from all over the world.

RALLY COMPETITION: Manufacturer's Championship
Products of Ford Motor Company and its world-wide affiliates won the 1963 Manufacturer's World Rally Championship. Ford's rally year began when two specially equipped Falcon V-8's startled the automotive world in the brutal 2500-mile Monte Carlo Rallye. Other special Falcon V-8's triumphed in Holland's famed Tulip Rally, and ran away with the Manufacturer's Team Prize in the 4000-mile Trans-Canada Rally.

INDIANAPOLIS: Ford ends an era
Advanced Ford engineering smashed precedent in the classic Indianapolis "500." The first time out, a light alloy version of the Fairlane V-8 design in a Lotus chassis finished second. And the next time, in the Milwaukee "200" it ended the reign of the traditional "Indy" racing car by leading every foot of the way from start to finish.

PERFORMANCE & ECONOMY: New laurels for Ford
The Mobil Economy Run underscored Falcon's years-long reputation for thrift—a Falcon scored first in Class B (medium-engined compacts). And the Pure Oil Performance Trials brought laurels to the big Fords, which walked off with overall wins in Classes I and II for total performance (economy, acceleration and braking).

✓ 1964 Result:

TOTAL PERFORMANCE INSPIRES THE TOUGHEST, SMARTEST CARS FORD EVER BUILT!

Fords have changed—and that's the real reason behind Ford's racing successes. We're now making the longest lasting, best handling cars in our history. The things we've learned from the specially equipped cars we enter in open competition have helped make them that way.

The inherent qualities that make the victorious racing car—road-holding, braking, durability, precision control, resistance to vibration—also make a car safer, stronger, and smoother for highway use.

But prove it to yourself. Take the wheel of any new Ford. Five minutes on the road will show you the kind of total performance no one else can match.

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 316 Some photographs had been made by the daguerreotype method during the Crimean War, but the first great struggle of men at arms to be reported extensively by photographers was the war in the United States, 1861-65. Both Union and Confederate armies were accompanied or followed by cameramen, and large numbers of their plates have survived.

However, the slow exposures imposed on the photographers prevented there being many pictures of actual fighting; all except a few are truly still-lifes. Such a picture as this [↑], made in June 1863, is truly exceptional. The scene in the picture, made by Alexander Gardner, is Fredericksburg. The gunners are men of the 2nd U. S. Artillery (Regular Army), who were brought into action in Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker's attempt to forestall Robert E. Lee's invasion of the North. This was a few days before Hooker was relieved as commander of the Army of the Potomac by George G. Meade, upon whom there then fell the urgent responsibility of stopping Lee at Gettysburg.

Commenting on his subject, Gardner wrote, "The battery gained such commendation . . . being finally transformed into a horse-battery and ordered to the cavalry, where it remained to the end of the war, without ever losing a gun, although the list of its actions was so long that its battle flag had no space to transcribe them upon."

The photograph is included with other Gardner wartime pictures in "Photographic Sketch Book of the War" (reprinted by Dover Publications, N. Y. C.). Gardner's work also included a number of the best photographs of Lincoln as president.

Is this the best "action" photograph taken during the war? Francis Trevelyan Miller, editor of the monumental "Photographic History of the Civil War," which encompassed the work of many cameramen, thought there was a better one: a picture made by Gardner during the battle of Antietam (Sharpsburg), showing both Union artillery and infantry on the firing line.

He stated that he has studied the extension of federal power at the expense of the individual for more than 20 years, and asked "do you know that under the proposed civil rights legislation federal inspectors will determine who farmers will hire, fire, promote and demote? Who may become members of farmer organizations and how long they may be served by the organization? To whom and in what manner farmer organizations will sell the products of their members, for which they manufacture or purchase. Under this legislation every agricultural producer, every man who raises live stock, every farmer who owns his farm, in short, every member of every farmer organization in the United States, will be forced to follow the dictates of federal personnel concerning who they choose as tenants; who drives their tractors; who dusts their cotton; who gathers their wheat; to whom they sell or lease their farm, if this legislation is enacted."

The women urge the bill be studied carefully before action is taken by the voters.

Secrets Of Charm

Gestures Fight Stage Fright

If you're a novice in speaking before an audience,. you're probably somewhat timid about expressing your thoughts with bodily action. Putting your thoughts into words, tranferring the words on paper, then reading from the paper may be as close as you've ever dared come to delivering a speech.

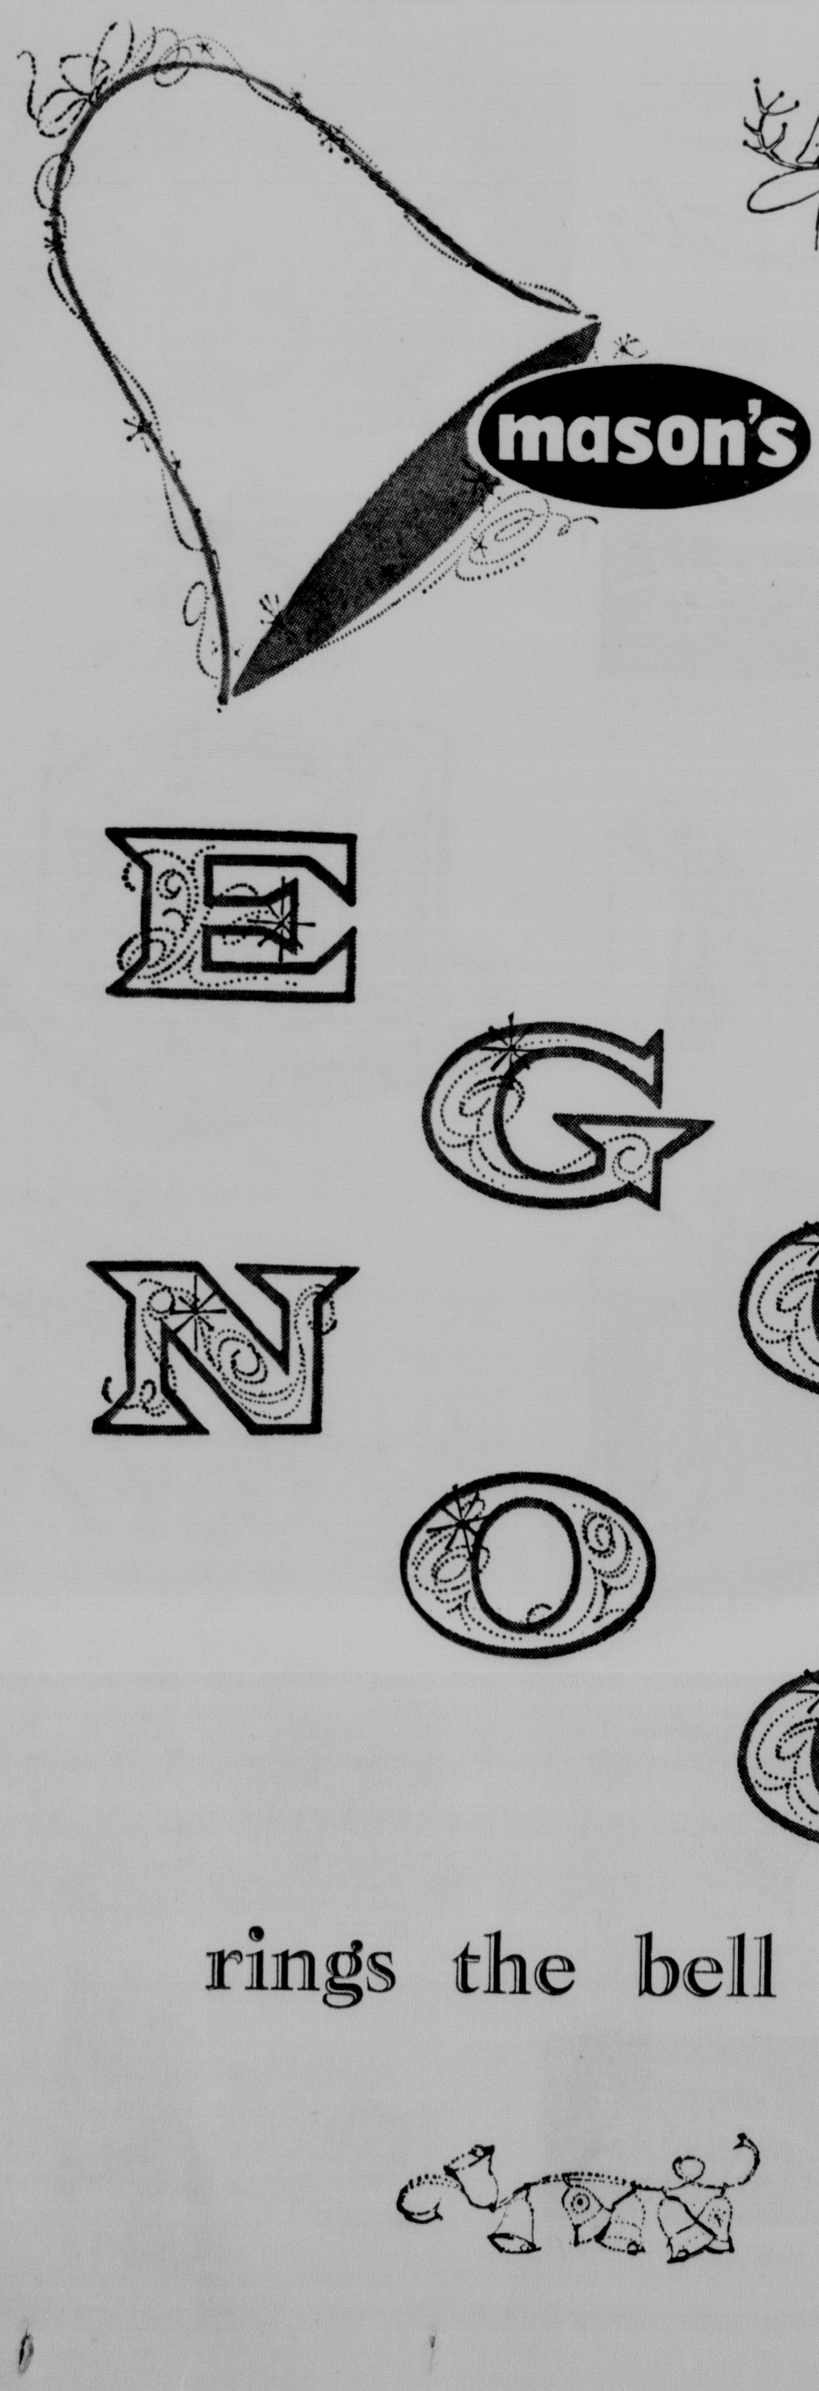

To become a really effective speaker, however, you must take one more step. Throw the paper away. Know your subject well enough to talk about it without a script . . . and free your hands, your eyes, your entire body to help you hold your audience's attention and to get ideas across.

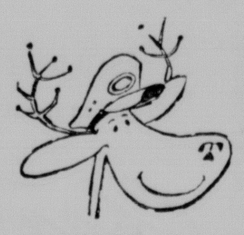

Initially, your gestures are bound to be self-conscious, because you may be thinking more about them than about your topic. Some of your movements may be awkward. It almost goes without saying that you'll move your body too much, in the beginning. Don't be too concerned. Too many gestures are better than too few. And even an awkward motion, if it springs spontaneously from inner impulse, is more natural than a false flourish, however smooth and dramatic it may seem.

Just cling to this assurance: As long as you are not afraid to use gestures, you can depend on the bodily action itself to break down stiffness and stage fright. After you have experienced favorable audience-response, after you've allowed yourself a bit more practice in illustrating words with motion, your confidence will zoom at least high enough to carry you to the point where you are more conscious of what you say than of what you are doing while you say it.

Eventually, when you are able to concentrate on communicating your thoughts to the audience, you will begin to employ almost instinctively the appropriate gestures. Your own emotions, your own interest in your topic will show in your stance and in your facial expressions.

If these are truly part of you, they will reveal your personality in a way that forges a link between you and the audience. Because they are properly motivated, they are genuine . . . and the audience cannot fail to yield with the understanding that only comes through empathy.

Who may become members of farmer organizations and how long they may be served by the organization? To whom and in what manner farmer organizations will sell the products of their members, for which they manufacture or purchase. Under this legislation every agricultural producer, every man who raises live stock, every farmer who owns his farm, in short, every member of every farmer organization in the United States, will be forced to follow the dictates of federal personnel concerning who they choose as tenants; who drives their tractors; who dusts their cotton, who gathers their wheat; to whom they sell or lease their farm, if this legislation is enacted."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please reply to this letter in your column.

(1) If, as you stated recently, "Hansen's disease," better known as leprosy, is not easily communicable why are the lepers isolated?

(2) Why do we need leprosariums, such as the institution in Carville, Louisiana? And why have people been terrified of this loathesome disease since 1000 B. C.?

(3) Why are only close relatives allowed to visit inmates in leprosariums?

—R.E.M. OF KENOSHA, WIS.

DEAR R.E.M.: I welcome the opportunity to answer your questions, which I'm sure are shared by millions of other readers who know nothing about this disease.

(1) The isolation of "Hansenites" is a hangover from the biblical laws as set forth in the Book of Leviticus. Since little was known about the treatment of any disease in those days, separation from society was the law of the land. This included the mentally ill as well as the physically ill.

(2) Such places as the leprosarium in Carville exist today because ignorant and/or fearful Congressmen refuse to pass legislation which will enable victims of Hansen's disease to be treated in public hospitals.

(3) It is not true that only close relatives can visit patients (not inmates, please) at the leprosarium. Anyone who wishes to visit a leprosarium may do so—as I have done.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Neither my husband nor I drink alcoholic beverages. Drinking is prohibited by our religion and we were both reared in the strict tradition of our church.

We moved to this city a few months ago. Because of my husband's position we are invited to many parties and I will be doing a great deal of entertaining.

Next month we will be giving a dinner party. My husband feels that if we don't serve cocktails we may be considered peculiar. Furthermore, he says the folks may not wish to come to our home again. I don't want to hurt my husband in his work, but we've never had liquor in our home and I'm reluctant to start now. If you say I am wrong I will reconsider.

—FIRM BELIEVER

DEAR BELIEVER: It's a sad state of affairs when people who don't serve liquor are afraid of being considered social freaks.

Anyone who would refuse to visit your home because he can't get a belt there would represent no great loss if he stayed away.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago you had a letter in your column from a woman who wanted to know if marrying a divorced man was like buying a used car—as she phrased it, "buying somebody else's trouble." I'd like to add something from experience.

I am 26 and I married a divorced man a year ago. I was divorced myself so I couldn't criticize him on that score. When we were going together he treated me as if I were a Dresden doll and he was afraid I'd break. Now that we are married I find that the things he said about his first wife seem to be true of him. He has a violent temper, no respect for the truth and he drinks too much.

My mother warned me that a divorced man would be a poor marriage risk. She said divorced women are different because women learn from a mistake but men don't. How about this?

—DIM VIEW

DEAR DIM: Statistics don't support your mother's theory. When both parties have been once divorced the chances for a successful marriage are slightly better than two rookies.

A two-time loser, however, has a lesser chance for a successful marriage. And the odds lengthen as the number of divorces go up.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please reply to this letter in your column.

(1) If, as you stated recently, "Hansen's disease," better known as leprosy, is not easily communicable why are the lepers isolated?

(2) Why do we need leprosariums, such as the institution in Carville, Louisiana? And why have people been terrified of this loathesome disease since 1000 B. C.?

(3) Why are only close relatives allowed to visit inmates in leprosariums?

—R.E.M. OF KENOSHA, WIS.

DEAR R.E.M.: I welcome the opportunity to answer your questions, which I'm sure are shared by millions of other readers who know nothing about this disease.

(1) The isolation of "Hansenites" is a hangover from the biblical laws as set forth in the Book of Leviticus. Since little was known about the treatment of any disease in those days, separation from society was the law of the land. This included the mentally ill as well as the physically ill.

(2) Such places as the leprosarium in Carville exist today because ignorant and/or fearful Congressmen refuse to pass legislation which will enable victims of Hansen's disease to be treated in public hospitals.

(3) It is not true that only close relatives can visit patients (not inmates, please) at the leprosarium. Anyone who wishes to visit a leprosarium may do so—as I have done.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Neither my husband nor I drink alcoholic beverages. Drinking is prohibited by our religion and we were both reared in the strict tradition of our church.

We moved to this city a few months ago. Because of my husband's position we are invited to many parties and I will be doing a great deal of entertaining.

Next month we will be giving a dinner party. My husband feels that if we don't serve cocktails we may be considered peculiar. Furthermore, he says the folks may not wish to come to our home again. I don't want to hurt my husband in his work, but we've never had liquor in our home and I'm reluctant to start now. If you say I am wrong I will reconsider.

—FIRM BELIEVER

DEAR BELIEVER: It's a sad state of affairs when people who don't serve liquor are afraid of being considered social freaks.

Anyone who would refuse to visit your home because he can't get a belt there would represent no great loss if he stayed away.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago you had a letter in your column from a woman who wanted to know if marrying a divorced man was like buying a used car—as she phrased it, "buying somebody else's trouble." I'd like to add something from experience.

I am 26 and I married a divorced man a year ago. I was divorced myself so I couldn't criticize him on that score. When we were going together he treated me as if I were a Dresden doll and he was afraid I'd break. Now that we are married I find that the things he said about his first wife seem to be true of him. He has a violent temper, no respect for the truth and he drinks too much.

My mother warned me that a divorced man would be a poor marriage risk. She said divorced women are different because women learn from a mistake but men don't. How about this?

—DIM VIEW

DEAR DIM: Statistics don't support your mother's theory. When both parties have been once divorced the chances for a successful marriage are slightly better than two rookies.

A two-time loser, however, has a lesser chance for a successful marriage. And the odds lengthen as the number of divorces go up.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fire Chief Suggests Plan For Keeping Yule Merry

Some common-sense suggestions for keeping Christmas the merriest season of the year were made yesterday by Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

He said Christmas trees, decorative lighting, wax candles and combustible wrappings and decorative materials all increase the fire hazards in homes.

Here are his suggestions for keeping Christmas merry:

Tree should be freshly cut. (It is if needles stay on when you bounce the butt hard on the ground; if you cannot pull needles out of the end of the branches easily; if stump is sticky with resin.) It should stand in water from the time it is brought into the house until it is taken out. Set the tree away from radiators or fireplace, and never where it might block escape in case of fire.

If you buy a plastic tree, be sure it is marked as made of slow-burning materials. If your tree is metal, don't use lighting strings on it. Metal trees will conduct electricity, so use only indirect lighting.

Decorative lighting should be used with care. Check lighting strings before using for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets. Never use wax candles on or near the tree, or with polystyrene foam decorations. Make sure tree and other decorative lighting is turned off before the family goes to bed or leaves the house.

If you use polystyrene foam, cotton batting, paper and other combustible materials for decorations, make sure they are "flameproofed." Use metal, glass, and other noncombustible decorating materials if there is a choice.

Dispose of gift wrappings promptly. (It's unsafe to burn them in a fireplace.)

School Principals Hold Session

Allegany County high school principals held their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the Board of Education office.

Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer and other members of the supervisory force attended. Reports concerning the high school principals' handbook now being prepared were submitted by Dr. W. Ardell Haines and Kendrick Y. Hodgdon.

W.Va. Coal Tonnage Shows Increase

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Mines Department said Tuesday that 1963 coal production in West Virginia reached 105.7 million tons during the first 10 months, compared with 96.4 million for the same period in 1962.

The Department report showed that production during October was up 800,000 tons over October, 1962, to 11.9 million tons.

Average monthly payroll and the number of fatal accidents also were higher than year ago figures.

The department said mine employment averaged 33,629 a month this year, compared with 32,716 a month for the corresponding 10 months last year. Accidents claimed a total of 117 lives during the 10-months period, 66 more than a year ago.

Sugar Grove Fund Gets Senate Okay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has passed the military construction bill which included funds for West Virginia projects.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd said the bill provides for $3.8 million to move the Navy's receiving station from Cheltenham, Md., to Sugar Grove, W. Va., and $84,000 for a National Guard field maintenance shop at Pt. Pleasant.

State Council

Income Tax Is Source

The committee said it favored financing through the income tax rather than the sales tax because the "program of state aid to education will experience rapid growth due to increases in school enrollment, and, therefore, should be supported by the more rapidly growing revenue source."

It left to the legislature's discretion whether to raise the income tax rate from 3 to 4 per cent or supply the funds by reducing the personal exemption from its present $800 to $600.

A special committee headed by Del. H. Kemp MacDaniel, D-Baltimore, estimated that the unsatisfied claims fund would be $3 million short if it paid off all pending claims at this time. The fund pays motorists for damages suffered in accidents with uninsured drivers.

The uninsured drivers must pay a $70 fee into the fund each year in order to receive license tags.

MacDaniel estimated that 20,000 uninsured motorists are driving on Maryland roads without having paid the fee. He said the drivers take out an insurance policy for a small down payment, obtain tags and let the policy lapse.

The council approved recommendations for imposing a $25 penalty on drivers who do not pay the fund fee and for charging a $2 fee of persons making claims against the fund.

The council approved dropping the state tax on manufacturers' tools and machinery after it was discovered that the wording of the law enabled counties to exempt the equipment from taxing by the state as well as by the county.

A Negligible Loss

Hughes told the council the loss to the state treasury would be negligible if the tax is dropped because virtually all industrial counties have passed exemptions.

The budgetary recommendations of the Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters included maintaining the state's general fund surplus at its present relative level.

The committee also recommended that the legislature give priority to reviewing budgets of the agencies which use the major portion of the state's funds.

The Committee on the Potomac River, under Del. Hervey G. Machen, D-Prince Georges, withheld its decision on an Army Engineers plan to develop the Potomac River Basin until the State Planning Department completes a study of the plan.

The committee also recommended a review of the state's water polution laws with an eye to setting up procedures for stopping industrial firms from polluting the state's waters.

The door to the projection room was forced open and the projection machines damaged. A vending machine on the first floor was also damaged by the intruder who took a small motor from the rewind machine.

Safe Toys Urged By Fire Chief

Parents should insist that all toys placed under Christmas trees this year are safe — incapable of causing fire, shock or explosion, Fire Chief Virgil Parker said yesterday.

He said parents should exercise good judgment in purchasing chemical sets for children, and that toys requiring fuels may be hazardous in young hands.

Parents should supervise all play with toys which involve fuels or chemicals, he said.

They should be sure, he added, that toys are made of materials which do not ignite readily.

The best assurance of getting a safe electrical toy, he added, is the presence of a UL label.

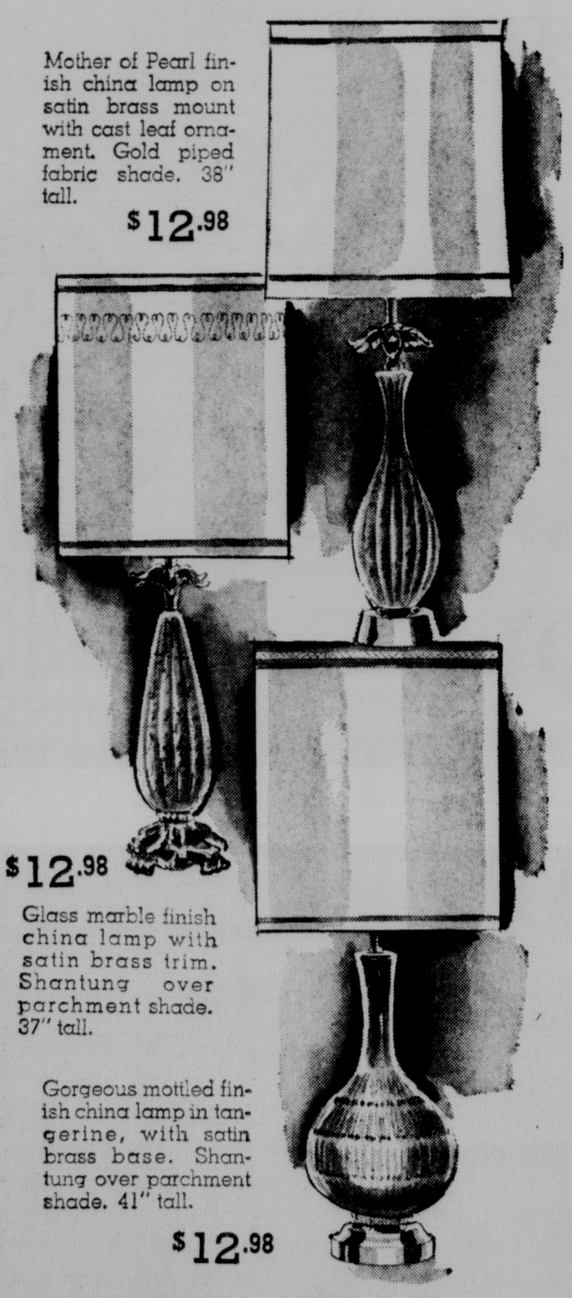

City Seeks Bids On Water Pipe

The City of Cumberland is advertising for bids, to be opened by the Mayor and Council December 23 at 10 a. m., for furnishing pipe and fittings for water mains.

It left to the legislature's discretion whether to raise the income tax rate from 3 to 4 per cent or supply the funds by reducing the personal exemption from its present $800 to $600.

A special committee headed by Del. H. Kemp MacDaniel, D-Baltimore, estimated that the unsatisfied claims fund would be $3 million short if it paid off all pending claims at this time. The fund pays motorists for damages suffered in accidents with uninsured drivers.

The uninsured drivers must pay a $70 fee into the fund each year in order to receive license tags.

MacDaniel estimated that 20,000 uninsured motorists are driving on Maryland roads without having paid the fee. He said the drivers take out an insurance policy for a small down payment, obtain tags and let the policy lapse.

The council approved recommendations for imposing a $25 penalty on drivers who do not pay the fund fee and for charging a $2 fee of persons making claims against the fund.

The council approved dropping the state tax on manufacturers' tools and machinery after it was discovered that the wording of the law enabled counties to exempt the equipment from taxing by the state as well as by the county.

A Negligible Loss

Hughes told the council the loss to the state treasury would be negligible if the tax is dropped because virtually all industrial counties have passed exemptions.

The budgetary recommendations of the Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters included maintaining the state's general fund surplus at its present relative level.

The committee also recommended that the legislature give priority to reviewing budgets of the agencies which use the major portion of the state's funds.

The Committee on the Potomac River, under Del. Hervey G. Machen, D-Prince Georges, withheld its decision on an Army Engineers plan to develop the Potomac River Basin until the State Planning Department completes a study of the plan.

The committee also recommended a review of the state's water polution laws with an eye to setting up procedures for stopping industrial firms from polluting the state's waters.

Safe Toys Urged By Fire Chief

Parents should insist that all toys placed under Christmas trees this year are safe — incapable of causing fire, shock or explosion, Fire Chief Virgil Parker said yesterday.

He said parents should exercise good judgment in purchasing chemical sets for children, and that toys requiring fuels may be hazardous in young hands.

Parents should supervise all play with toys which involve fuels or chemicals, he said.

They should be sure, he added, that toys are made of materials which do not ignite readily.

The best assurance of getting a safe electrical toy, he added, is the presence of a UL label.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bing Crosby is packing up his golf clubs, old song sheets and a trunkful of memories and moving to the San Francisco Bay area.

Crosby, originally from Washington State, arrived in Hollywood more than 30 years ago, an obscure singer. He leaves filmland with a reputation as one of the world's biggest stars.

Bing is selling the large estate he has owned for the past 20 years in the exclusive Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles. With his wife Kathryn and their three children, he's planning to move into a home in Hillsborough, an equally exclusive residential area south of San Francisco.

"We have made an offer on a house up there," Bing said. "It's in an estate and has to go through probate. It's open for other bids."

Barring a change in plans, the Crosbys expect to be in Hillsborough early next year.

The crooner has become sort of a vocal institution in Hollywood and there are many persons here who will be sorry to see him go. He promises to return often.

"I don't really feel I'm leaving at all," he said. "I've got a lot of work here next year so I'll keep an office and probably a flat.

"I'll probably spend more time here than I ever did because of the work I've got lined up. Last year I was in Los Angeles about three - and - a - half months. And in years past, even less."

Bing owns a twin-engine airplane, an aircraft which will solve any north-south commuting problems he might encounter.

The popular performer was asked why he was moving to northern California.

"I've always liked it up there," he answered. "I like to golf there, there is no smog and I have friends there. It's also close to a major city. San Francisco. I think, is my favorite city. I like San Francisco, New Orleans, New York and London.

"My favorite small town is Spokane," he added, not wanting to get in a fight with his old hometown.

Bing plans to keep his home near Palm Springs and a filmland resort area he can always visit for a few rounds of golf with his old friend Bob Hope, also a part-time resident of that community.

If Bing wants to get up a movie twosome in his new neighborhood, he can always call up Tennessee Ernie Ford who left Hollywood to live near San Francisco, not far from Crosby's prospective home.

The two of them will undoubtedly be the most popular singing duet on that whole peninsula south of San Francisco.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

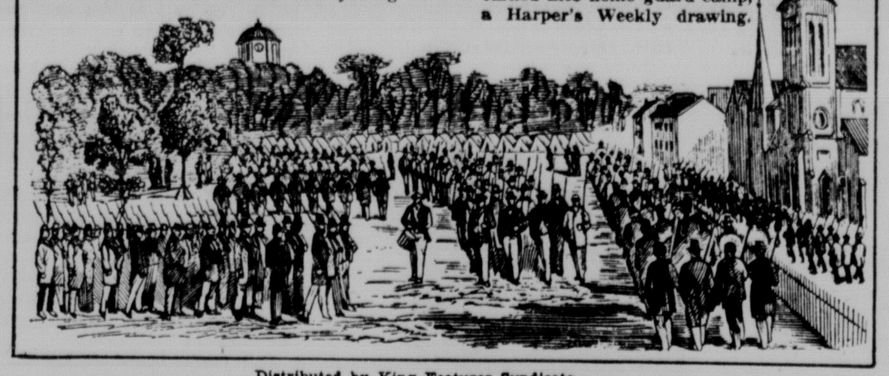

No. 317 Same day, June 28, 1863, George Meade replaced Joe Hooker as commander of the Union Army of the Potomac, one tentacle of Lee's army of invasion reached within sight of the dome of Pennsylvania's State Capitol. A skirmish was fought four miles from Harrisburg, on the other side of the Susquehanna, by troops of Jubal Early's detached division of Ewell's II Corps with emergency militia hastily mobilized by Gov. Andrew Curtin. The day before Early's captors of York had demanded $100,000 and supplies of food and clothing to save the town from being sacked.

That 28th home guards at Columbia, east of York, burned the bridge across the Susquehanna to prevent its use by the Confederates in capturing Harrisburg in accordance with Lee's grand plan. Ewell might have succeeded in taking the city anyway, with Stonewall Jackson's old corps of veterans, if he had not been called back by Lee for a concentration around Gettysburg to meet Meade's advancing army full force. (Gettysburg was not, as is often stated erroneously, the "high tide of the Confederacy.")

In the absence of reconnaissance reports from Jeb Stuart's cavalry, Lee did not know until June 28 that Meade had pushed the Union Army across the Potomac in pursuit of the invaders.

Meade's strategy was to maneuver from Frederick, where Hooker had the army centered, toward Harrisburg for the dual purpose of threatening Lee's line of communications and keeping his forces between Lee's and Washington. Thus a northern army moved north and the vanguard of a southern army moved south to battle at Gettysburg.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bing Crosby is packing up his golf clubs, old song sheets and a trunkful of memories and moving to the San Francisco Bay area.

Crosby, originally from Washington State, arrived in Hollywood more than 30 years ago, an obscure singer. He leaves filmland with a reputation as one of the world's biggest stars.

Bing is selling the large estate he has owned for the past 20 years in the exclusive Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles. With his wife Kathryn and their three children, he's planning to move into a home in Hillsborough, an equally exclusive residential area south of San Francisco.

"We have made an offer on a house up there," Bing said. "It's in an estate and has to go through probate. It's open for other bids."

Barring a change in plans, the Crosbys expect to be in Hillsborough early next year.

The crooner has become sort of a vocal institution in Hollywood and there are many persons here who will be sorry to see him go. He promises to return often.

"I don't really feel I'm leaving at all," he said. "I've got a lot of work here next year so I'll keep an office and probably a flat.

"I'll probably spend more time here than I ever did because of the work I've got lined up. Last year I was in Los Angeles about three - and - a - half months. And in years past, even less."

Bing owns a twin-engine airplane, an aircraft which will solve any north-south commuting problems he might encounter.

The popular performer was asked why he was moving to northern California.

"I've always liked it up there," he answered. "I like to golf there, there is no smog and I have friends there. It's also close to a major city. San Francisco. I think, is my favorite city. I like San Francisco, New Orleans, New York and London.

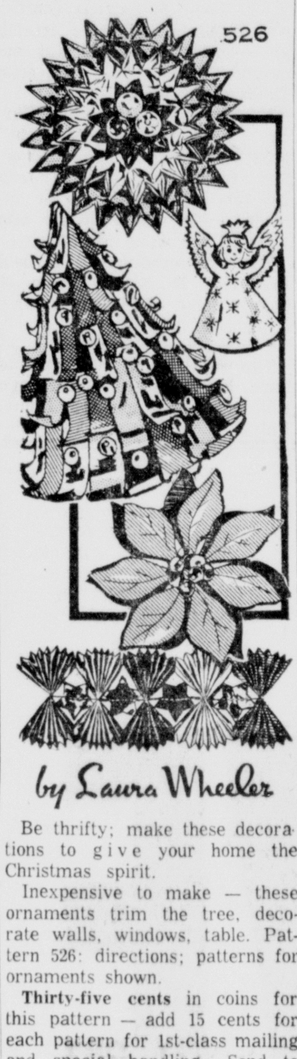

"My favorite small town is Spokane," he added, not wanting to get in a fight with his old hometown.

Bing plans to keep his home near Palm Springs and a filmland resort area he can always visit for a few rounds of golf with his old friend Bob Hope, also a part-time resident of that community.

If Bing wants to get up a movie twosome in his new neighborhood, he can always call up Tennessee Ernie Ford who left Hollywood to live near San Francisco, not far from Crosby's prospective home.

The two of them will undoubtedly be the most popular singing duet on that whole peninsula south of San Francisco.

SCHWARZENBACH'S

New Zoning Laws Opposed

A group of residents opposed to the proposed comprehensive zoning regulations appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to voice their objections.

John H. Martin, Frostburg, was the spokesman for the group. He said that more than 100 persons attended a meeting Sunday night at Central YMCA to discuss the zoning plan. Martin said the Master Plan of the Planning and Zoning Commission connotated the same idea which the Nazis used in Germany, with "too much power" vested in the commission.

Martin said that the provision for agricultural land in the zoning plan restricts the rights of property owners to build a dwelling and is being opposed by his group.

Martin also offered himself as a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals, on which a vacancy exists. He said he felt that the board should have an "opposition member."

"Throw the whole thing (zoning proposal) out," Martin urged. Martin also objected to the employment of out of state personnel to operate the Planning and Zoning Commission.

He then polled the two county commissioners present, Robert Little Ebert and Louis V. Shinnamon on whether they are in favor of the Planning and Zoning Commission program. Both county board members said they do favor the program.

Both county board officials said that the planning and zoning program is for the best interests of all the people of the county. As far as the proposed comprehensive zoning plan, which is being worked on at present, the two officials said that two public hearings will have to be held early next year and that until the proposed regulations are received from the planning and zoning unit they can make no decisions.

Commissioner Ebert suggested that the protestants to the zoning plan make specific recommendations to the Planning and Zoning Commission so that these can be taken into consideration. He also stated that the purpose of the recent informational meetings throughout the county was to elicit the very result which occurred today—that is, the objections which were made.

Martin veered from the topic of zoning to inquire about the subdivision regulations which were adopted last September. Both Ebert and Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, outlined the procedure which was followed. Getty stated that when the proposed regulations for subdivisions were brought up public hearings were held. There were representatives of building contractors present and they objected to what they termed stringent regulations.

After that the regulations were changed and modified to meet these objections, and the subdivision regulations were adopted. A similar procedure will be followed in connection with the zoning regulations, Getty said, with all interested parties being able to voice their objections specifically.

Getty stated that the subdivisions provide for the necessary procedure when a tract is laid off, lots sold and homes built so that roads, water, sewage and other facilities are provided. This prevents a "fly-by night" operators to sell off lots without providing these facilities. In the past there have been instances where a number of lots have been sold, homes erected and then the property owners come to the county to request that a roadway be built into the revelopment, Getty stated. This is not fair to the rest of the county taxpayers, Getty stated.

Martin said that he felt there were enough regulations through the Health Department, etc., to handle any residential building. Getty said that the Health Department regulations are not broad enough to cover the matter. Getty also said that the zoning regulations should not initially be too stringent so as to harm property owners in their use of the land.

The right of use by an individual of his property is basic, Getty said, and only when the public interest is an overriding factor can regulations prevail.

Martin, who said he resides in a trailer or mobile home, objected to regulations concerning their use. He said that most of these mobile homes are bought by older people who can not maintain or care for a large dwelling.

The current interim zoning regulations expire next April and the proposed permanent and comprehensive plan is being readied to take their place, the group was told.

New Zoning Laws Opposed

A group of residents opposed to the proposed comprehensive zoning regulations appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to voice their objections.

John H. Martin, Frostburg, was the spokesman for the group. He said that more than 100 persons attended a meeting Sunday night at Central YMCA to discuss the zoning plan. Martin said the Master Plan of the Planning and Zoning Commission connotated the same idea which the Nazis used in Germany, with "too much power" vested in the commission.

Martin said that the provision for agricultural land in the zoning plan restricts the rights of property owners to build a dwelling and is being opposed by his group.

Martin also offered himself as a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals, on which a vacancy exists. He said he felt that the board should have an "opposition member."

"Throw the whole thing (zoning proposal) out," Martin urged. Martin also objected to the employment of out of state personnel to operate the Planning and Zoning Commission.

He then polled the two county commissioners present, Robert Little Ebert and Louis V. Shinnamon on whether they are in favor of the Planning and Zoning Commission program. Both county board members said they do favor the program.

Both county board officials said that the planning and zoning program is for the best interests of all the people of the county. As far as the proposed comprehensive zoning plan, which is being worked on at present, the two officials said that two public hearings will have to be held early next year and that until the proposed regulations are received from the planning and zoning unit they can make no decisions.

Commissioner Ebert suggested that the protestants to the zoning plan make specific recommendations to the Planning and Zoning Commission so that these can be taken into consideration. He also stated that the purpose of the recent informational meetings throughout the county was to elicit the very result which occurred today—that is, the objections which were made.

Martin veered from the topic of zoning to inquire about the subdivision regulations which were adopted last September. Both Ebert and Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, outlined the procedure which was followed. Getty stated that when the proposed regulations for subdivisions were brought up public hearings were held. There were representatives of building contractors present and they objected to what they termed stringent regulations.

After that the regulations were changed and modified to meet these objections, and the subdivision regulations were adopted. A similar procedure will be followed in connection with the zoning regulations, Getty said, with all interested parties being able to voice their objections specifically.

Getty stated that the subdivisions provide for the necessary procedure when a tract is laid off, lots sold and homes built so that roads, water, sewage and other facilities are provided. This prevents a "fly-by night" operators to sell off lots without providing these facilities. In the past there have been instances where a number of lots have been sold, homes erected and then the property owners come to the county to request that a roadway be built into the revelopment, Getty stated. This is not fair to the rest of the county taxpayers, Getty stated.

Martin said that he felt there were enough regulations through the Health Department, etc., to handle any residential building. Getty said that the Health Department regulations are not broad enough to cover the matter. Getty also said that the zoning regulations should not initially be too stringent so as to harm property owners in their use of the land.

The right of use by an individual of his property is basic, Getty said, and only when the public interest is an overriding factor can regulations prevail.

Martin, who said he resides in a trailer or mobile home, objected to regulations concerning their use. He said that most of these mobile homes are bought by older people who can not maintain or care for a large dwelling.

The current interim zoning regulations expire next April and the proposed permanent and comprehensive plan is being readied to take their place, the group was told.

Busy Days Ahead For The New Sheriff

Italian Government To Be Watched

Italy's new coalition government, whose cabinet includes leftwing socialists for the first time, will be watched apprehensively in the West for signs of creeping neutralism. The socialists are only lukewarm to Italy's membership in NATO and flatly opposed to expanding the Western Alliance's nuclear potential through a multinational fleet.

But it is in domestic affairs that the Marxist-oriented socialists are likely to apply immediate and heaviest pressure. For years the socialists have been campaigning against monopolies and against extensive nationalization.

The cabinet posts assigned to the socialists, under threat of their aligning with the communists, indicate that substantial concessions had to be made by premier-designate Moro. Aside from the largely titular deputy premiership, which went to the aged and ailing Pietro Nenni, leftwing socialists have received the budget, public works, health and sanitation, and tourism portfolios.

Opportunities to influence the domestic economy through the budget the public construction are manifest, particularly at a time when the private sector is slowing. While Premier Moro has succeeded in locking out the communists, Marxist theories may be able to penetrate his government through the opening to the left, which by now is sizable.

Tax Cut And New Jobs

Lyndon Johnson has called for the creation of five million new jobs, and has taken the position that the proposed tax cut will do a good deal to conjure up a big surge in employment. Connecticut Junior Democratic Senator, Abe Ribicoff, has, on the other hand, doubted that tax cutting can result in the sort of investment that will put unskilled men to work in any significant numbers.

While this column would like to accept President Johnson's line of argument, the present trends in patterns of employment tend to support Ribicoff. As the Chase Manhattan Bank makes plain a recent analysis published by its economic research department, the job question boils down to a case of "them that has, gits." When new investment creates the need for extra work, the skilled operator tends to get more overtime. Or he takes a second job, as a "moonlighter."

According to Department of Labor surveys, there are now some 23 million Americans or a full third of the working force who are employed more than 40 hours a week. Some 13 million do more than 48 hours of work. Now, if the extra work beyond 35 hours a week were to be shared out among the five million unemployed, the job problem that faces America would not be entirely solved. But it would be much more manageable.

The Chase Manhattan economists, however, in analyzing the nature of "moonlighting," show why a "share the work" program cannot succeed. Of the 23 million people who now put in more than 40 hours a week, some five million are entrepreneurs. They work long hours, whether on their own farms or in their own small businesses, as a matter of profit-and-loss necessity.

Then there are the three million "moonlighters." They feel they need the extra money to support their families in an inflationary era. A million of these moonlighters are self-employed in their second jobs. Others have professional skills that make their employment a "must" for those who pay them their second salaries. It is obvious that no law could be framed in a free country to prevent the three million moonlighters from exercising their God-given rights to the fruits of personal initiatives.

Next come the 15 million wage and salary workers with one job each that carries with it considerable overtime. Four million of these are professional and managerial men and women, and their extra work cannot in the nature of things be parcelled out among those without professional training, as the Chase Bank economists say. "It's the old story: our skill requirements have outstripped our educational attainments."

The 11 million non-professional overtime workers who might be forced, by company pressure, to share their work with the unemployed are not likely to be touched. For it is to the interest of an employer to pay his existing workers overtime rather than to take on new people who will have to be provided with fringe benefits and Social Security checkoffs. Moreover, many unions frown on spreading the work. The incentive to join a labor union is to place one's self in a favored position for getting all the work and money that one can.

It is not to be argued, of course, that new investment created by money saved on tax cuts will fail to produce extra jobs. But insofar as those new jobs require skills, they will be a temptation to further overtime and more moonlighting. There is no way of getting around this as long as the five million unemployed remain largely unemployable in an advanced and increasingly automated economic system.

This is not to say that a tax cut is to be deplored. It could add health to the present economic system by stretching it to capacity and by giving moonlighters and overtime workers even more purchasing power. It could serve as a cushion against a future downturn, but the problem, as the Chase economists see it, remains one of education if the currently unemployed are to be put to work.

Top Business And Labor Leaders Enthusiastic About Lyndon Johnson

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It's been well publicized that President Johnson had two sessions last week with American business leaders and American labor leaders. Exactly what happened at the two closed door meetings has not been publicized.

Most unique development was the private support which business leaders gave Johnson. Many came away just as enthusiastic as the labor leaders, who were considered in Johnson's corner in the first place.

Johnson gave a short talk to the Business Advisory Council, which includes the top brass of the business world, then sat down in the cabinet room to chat with them individually. This was what they seemed to enjoy most.

In the group was Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs and the man who raised $3,000,000 to finance the big radio-TV political punch of Eisenhower's 1952 campaign.

Also present was Henry Ford II, head of the far flung automobile empire who was a strong Eisenhower-Nixon supporer. His former associate, Ernie Breech, who has guided the destinies of both Ford and General Motors and is now chairman of Trans World Airlines, was also present.

All expressed their appreciation of the new president. But the man who seemed most appreciative was Crawford Greenwalt, head of the giant Du Pont Company. The Du Pont family is one of the heaviest contributors to the Republican Party, usually tosses about $200,000 into the GOP kitty at every election. During recent years they have been battling against the Justice Department regarding the split up of Du Pont-General Motors stock, a suit begun under the Democrats.

But Greenwalt confided to friends at the White House that the nation was "fortunate" to have a man as well qualified as Johnson standing in the wings ready to take over.

Meany Is Persistent

Johnson's meeting with labor leaders was held one hour earlier, and the President kidded his Secretary of Commerce, Luther Hodges, who sat in on the labor session that he had got here "a little too early" for the business conference.

Other cabinet members who attended both meetings were Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Interior Udall, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman and Secretary of Labor Wirtz.

At the meeting with labor leaders, Johnson did more listening than talking, as AFL-CIO President George Meany outlined his worries over unemployment and automation.

This incidentally was Meany's second session with Johnson since the death of President Kennedy. Johnson had phoned Meany after receiving a sympathetic telegram, had told him he was going to need his support.

"You'll get it," blurted the brusque labor leader.

Later he sought an appointment with Johnson and asked Secretary Wirtz to make it. Wirtz, knowing the tremendous pressures on the new President tried to save his chief, advised Meany to wait. But Meany went over his head direct to the White House, and was advised to meet Johnson at his Spring Valley home, before breakfast and drive with him to the White House.

En route through the early morning traffic, he promised money and manpower for Johnson's re-election, but expressed the hope that the vice presidential running-mate might be sympathetic to labor.

Labor Prays

At the meeting with the top AFL-CIO brass two days later, Meany began the session by saying:

"Mr. President, our first thoughts the other day, after the roof fell in with the assassination of John F. Kennedy, were for you and the great problems you face as his successor. We are here today to tell you that we are behind you 100 per cent. We are citizens first and union members second."

Johnson replied that he was deeply grateful. He recalled that Kennedy had always received "warm-hearted support" from labor. "I need your help even more," he added humbly. "President Kennedy had more talents than I have for this job."

The President suggested that the labor leaders and six cabinet members at the meeting bow their heads in prayer for "the great man we have lost." Everyone stood for a moment in silent meditation.

When Johnson asked for labor's support on civil rights and employment problems, Meany pledged full AFL-CIO cooperation. He went on to talk of his great worries over automation, quoted Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., that the U. S. was losing about 4 million jobs a year as a result of automation.

"When you add this to the rapid growth of employables, you can appreciate the gravity of the situation," said Meany. "It requires 25,000 new jobs a week just to take care of the young people, who are flooding the employment field due to the population explosion.

"Despite what the newspapers say, I am not against automation. I do not believe in breaking labor-saving machinery with sledge hammers, but it is about time that the government, labor, business and the consumer got together in a united, national effort to stop the dangerous rise of joblessness."

Meany said his own answer, and that of labor, was a shorter work week, but that he was ready to listen to alternative solutions. President Johnson replied that Congress would give a big boost to employment by early passage of the tax bill, though this would not solve the whole problem. He expressed deep concern over unemployment, promised further study.

Presidential Succession Law Needs Clarification

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Many of the plans for presidential succession that have been offered thus far seem to ignore the basic principle of government in a republic—that the people should select their chief executive.

This wasn't provided for under the old law and it is not provided for completely under the present law, enacted in 1947, whereby the secretary of state and the other members of the cabinet are designated in a theoretical line of succession following the speaker of the house and the presiding officer of the senate.

Cabinet officers in the United States have never been elected by the people. The vice president, on the other hand, is on the ballot in a national election, and the speaker of the house and the president pro tem of the Senate are chosen by the people's representatives in Congress.

Criticism of the current plan has developed in the last few days because the present speaker happens to be 72 years old and the senate's president pro tem is 85, and because the present line of succession presumably goes back to the cabinet if the speaker and the senate's presiding officer, who have in turn succeeded to the presidency, should die or become disabled while holding that office. But it may also be pointed out that, once the speaker has become president, the next speaker —who would be promptly elected by the house—could be construed to be in line ahead of anybody in the cabinet. It is this anomaly in existing law which needs clarification.

One criticism being mentioned is that, while a vice president who succeeds to the presidency is, of course, of the same party as the departed president, the speaker of the House of Representatives or presiding officer of the Senate might not be. Thus, the party which has been in control of the administration could overnight be removed from executive power. The four-year term for which an administration of one party had been elected would suddenly be ended by the accession of an administration of a different party.

But this merely accentuates the fundamental principle involved. For, when the people have elected a Congress of a particular party, this is an expression of the public will and represents the desires of the people.

Under the Canadian or British system, for instance, if the people vote one party out of power, this means that the prime minister has to leave office at the same time, and a new premier is then selected out of the majority membership of the national legislature. Even if there has been no election, the majority party can change the prime minister, and if the incumbent refuses to resign, the people can decide the issue in an election held to determine whether the dissenters or the members who support the prime minister are right. The people decide.

Cabinet officers in this country usually are selected for their competence in particular fields of executive responsibilty. A secretary of state or a secretary of the treasury is rarely a leader in the Democratic or the Republican Party, and hence has no intimate experience with Congress —something very important in the presidential office.

In Canada, in Great Britain, in Australia, the cabinet which is selected from the party members in a parliament consists as a rule of men who have come up through the ranks of the party—just as Lyndon Johnson did. While in recent years there has been a tendency in this country to put a majority or minority leader from one house of Congress or the other on the ticket as the vice - presidential nominee, no provision has been made for all possible successors to be selected from Congress. The 1947 law does designate the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate to follow the vice president in presidential succession, and both are, of course, party leaders in their respective houses. The speaker is chosen just after the congressional election, held every two years. The president pro tem of the Senate also is elected every two years at the start of a new session of Congress because the seats of one-third of the senate's membership have been up for election.

The present law is satisfactory as far as it goes in providing that the leaders of the two houses of congress are next in line after the vice president. The real defect in it is in the succession beyond these two individuals. This could be a problem if the accidents of fate, including war, should wipe out the top leaders in both branches of the government.

The present statute needs amendment to make it crystal clear that the succession will not go to the cabinet if anything happens to a speaker of the house who has become president, but that the power will definitely pass to the next individual who has been elected speaker of the house or to be president pro tem of the senate. Each of these officials should always be someone in a leadership position who knows the legislative branch of the government and, through his service on congressional committees, has become familiar with departmental problems on the executive side.

The duties of cabinet officers, on the other hand, today are confined pretty much to the routine of their own departments. For that reason, the late President Kennedy held few cabinet meetings. He depended instead, as did other president, on an anonymous staff of presidential assistants who were not nominated for confirmation by the Senate, and in whose selection the people's representatives therefore have had no voice. This weakness has been apparent in many administrations, irrespective of party.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

TATTLE TALE — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy falls somewhat short of overwhelming popularity among some members of his own political party in Congress. One reason is illustrated by the following incident that took place recently.

A Senator was asked by one of Bobby Kennedy's aides for his views on the acceptability of a man from the Senator's state whom the administration was considering nominating to an important government post.

The Senator opposed the appointment and informed the Justice Department why he did so, including an exteremely frank estimate of the man's personality and character.

Within a few hours, the Senator received a communication from the individual involved plainly indicating that he had been informed about the Senator's appraisal of him. It took the Senator some time to regain his composure, but even after he did he went around to some of his Senate Democratic colleagues and told them how the Justice Department had treated a confidence from him.

GIFTS—With all the talk of ethical conduct for Congressmen, it's a wonder that no one missed the question the other day each member of the House found he had received a gift—and from a fellow Congressman, at that. The "gift" was a half pound bag of salted peanuts and the donor was Rep. Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma who was out to publicize the peanut industry that thrives in his congressional district.

Wickersham sent the legislators an accompanying note stressing that the gift was purely non-political, that neither right wing nor left wing was favored. He added puckishly, "I trust you will enjoy them if your staff doesn't eat them first."

What Wickersham didn't say, of course, was that the gift could be construed as a means of saying "nuts to you" to any members who either didn't like Wickersham, didn't like peanuts, or didn't like Oklahoma.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The new President is going to have to learn to lose his temper. He is also going to have to learn to take time off from the job for relaxing exercise. These are important to a Chief Executive. Lyndon Baines Johnson, 55, sustained a severe heart attack several years ago. Almost all of the leading cardiologists agree that a healthy emotional explosion now and then, in addition to exercise which entails walking and concentration on matters other than work are cardiac preventives.

Politically, President Johnson is a horse-trader. He may be more masterful at this art than his mentor, Sam Rayburn. If it can be said that Eisenhower was aloof, Kennedy was inspired, then Johnson is a realist. He will achieve more, in less time, than his predecessors because he is accustomed to button-holing his congressional cronies in the locker room and trading the votes they need for the things he wants.

This is a delicately balanced practice. Reporters who knew Lyndon Johnson when he became Majority Leader of the United States Senate in 1955, feel that his physical trouble started at that point. The Senator had a boiling point, and he began to learn to sit on the lid—to repress it. The lips began to compress into a tight mechanical smile, making liars of the cold anger in the eyes.

Now, more than ever, it is important that the President be empowered to act like other human beings. His high calling does not imply perpetual good humor. He should be allowed to "sound off," to shout, to pound his fist on a desk when he reaches that emotional stage. One of the reasons why he doesn't is because we look upon our President as children regard a benevolent father. We demand a happy, confident face.

Perhaps our mistake is in regarding the President as our government. He is not. He is chief of one branch — the Executive. The other two—the Legislative and the Judicial — are equally important. The power of the Judicial is divided between nine men, the power of the Legislative is broken among all the votes in the House of Representatives and the Senate, whereas the Executive prerogative lies in one hand — the President's.

Woodrow Wilson killed himself by degrees because he took the work too seriously. Herbert Hoover lives on because he devoted his energies to the things which were possible of accomplishment. Franklin D. Roosevelt killed himself trying to be all things to all men. Temperamentally, Harry Truman was best suited to the presidency because he never looked upon the presidency as being more than one branch in a triple-branched tree.

Dwight D. Eisenhower withstood the agony of D-Day and the winning of the war, but his heart faltered in the august silence of the White House. In the final month of President Kennedy's life, he invited me to witness three state functions: (1) the welcome at the White House to the President of Bolivia; (2) the signing of a bill on mental retardation; (3) filming of the color motion pictures of the welcome to Bolivia's president.

All three dissipated seconds and minutes which he had been hoarding. He had given up going to Andrews Field to welcome foreign chiefs of state, and had them flown by helicopter to the south lawn of the White House. He clocked these welcomes to such a fine point that he left his office at the last moment, and strode briskly across the gravel drive just in time to take the hand of the visitor as he stepped from a car.

He was irritated by long receiving lines. He stood bareheaded in a chill wind to say the friendly things about "our nation and yours." In the signing of the bill, he worked in his office until the newsmen and photographers were ready, then he left his office and used a couple of dozen pens to sign it. The smile hardly masked his vexation as he passed out pen after pen as mementos to political leaders and friends.

The movies of the welcoming ceremonies — even though they were in color, were ready the following afternoon. The President of Bolivia arrived with his retinue; there were formal greetings; President Kennedy stopped work and smiled happily as the projector was set up, and then sat with a man whose language he could not speak to see motion pictures in which both had participated. Mr. Kennedy gave the film to his guest.

He enjoyed none of this, although he had the highest regard for President Paz, and for Bolivia. President Johnson, who has a heart history, is going to have to wait through these things, and hundreds of renditions of "Hail To The Chief," "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the national anthems of scores of nations.

There is no doubt in my mind that he will not be able to endure the time-wasting chores unless he learns, on occasion, to give full vent to his feelings, and unless he cultivates a hobby which will take him out of the office into warm sunshine, where care evaporates and men can josh and rib each other without fear of being quoted . . .

Evaluation Of New Medications Takes Time

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us are aware of the limitations, dangers, and side reactions of medicines. There is no perfect drug and we should be suspicious of any product offered as a cure-all for every imaginable malady. The intelligent person knows that pharmacists and physicians must try new preparations over a long period before adequate evaluation can be made.

Several drugs have been removed from the market because they proved to be too dangerous, even after years of usage. Thalidomide had passed all the usual tests as a safe and effective drug. Time demonstrated that it damaged the fetus when used by women during the first four months of pregnancy.

Physicians have learned from centuries of experience to rely upon time. Most of the sensational stories on the remarkable value of a new drug represent exaggerations to attract reader attention. Many are planted by the manufacturer to introduce the product and promote sales. News releases emphasize the good qualities and omit the bad; the latter may be an honest omission because the remedy has not been used on enough patients over a long period to uncover the dangers and limitations.

Reputable pharmaceutical houses take no chances and avoid undue publicity until they are reasonably sure that every claim for their product can be backed up. They depend upon reliable and honest medical research teams to obtain the facts. After all, it is the practicing physician who is the final judge and he has nothing to gain and everything to lose when he prescribes a worthless or hazardous medication.

Drugs go through cycles of popularity. Vitamins, for example, work best when they compensate for actual deficiencies but are of little value and occasionally are harmful if the body has its quota. When they are used as a remedy for almost every ailment, the physician is caught in the middle; patients may demand a vitamin for a disorder that has little or nothing to do with the cause.

SPINAL TAP

E. J. K. writes: Why is a spinal puncture a prerequisite in a clinic before mental illness is diagnosed?

REPLY

Because of the possibility that a specific infection or brain lesion is responsible for the mental condition. This test is not always deemed necessary so that the term "prerequisite" is not apropos.

DIET FOR DIABETICS

A. L. writes: Can a diabetic safely take reducing pills?

KEPLY

Yes, but the diabetic diet takes into account the ideal weight of the individual. If you are too stout at present, you will reduce by sticking to the diet.

TOMORROW: The vulnerable gall bladder.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Harpo Marx's first professional stage appearance was in the basement of his flat off Second Avenue in New York. The play was "Quo Vadis Upside Down," a travesty written by Harpo's uncle, Al Shean (of Gallagher and Shean). The admission price was one cat!

It appears that there was a mouse plague in the neighborhood, and store proprietors were paying a penny apiece for cats. So Harpo (aged 12) and an older brother named Groucho decided to cash in on the demand. Harpo recalls that the performance grossed several cats at the box office, but that the troupe netted only four cents in profits. Three cats got away.

Mechanical and electrical classroom devices are the order of the day in progressive elementary schools. Reading machines are being installed in many classes. It's getting so, grumbles the editor of the Granada Review, that instead of bringing an apple to school for the teacher, students now anxious to ingratiate themselves bring a can of oil.

Italian Government To Be Watched

Italy's new coalition government, whose cabinet includes leftwing socialists for the first time, will be watched apprehensively in the West for signs of creeping neutralism. The socialists are only lukewarm to Italy's membership in NATO and flatly opposed to expanding the Western Alliance's nuclear potential through a multinational fleet.

But it is in domestic affairs that the Marxist-oriented socialists are likely to apply immediate and heaviest pressure. For years the socialists have been campaigning against monopolies and against extensive nationalization.

The cabinet posts assigned to the socialists, under threat of their aligning with the communists, indicate that substantial concessions had to be made by premier-designate Moro. Aside from the largely titular deputy premiership, which went to the aged and ailing Pietro Nenni, leftwing socialists have received the budget, public works, health and sanitation, and tourism portfolios.

Opportunities to influence the domestic economy through the budget the public construction are manifest, particularly at a time when the private sector is slowing. While Premier Moro has succeeded in locking out the communists, Marxist theories may be able to penetrate his government through the opening to the left, which by now is sizable.

Tax Cut And New Jobs

Lyndon Johnson has called for the creation of five million new jobs, and has taken the position that the proposed tax cut will do a good deal to conjure up a big surge in employment. Connecticut Junior Democratic Senator, Abe Ribicoff, has, on the other hand, doubted that tax cutting can result in the sort of investment that will put unskilled men to work in any significant numbers.

While this column would like to accept President Johnson's line of argument, the present trends in patterns of employment tend to support Ribicoff. As the Chase Manhattan Bank makes plain a recent analysis published by its economic research department, the job question boils down to a case of "them that has, gits." When new investment creates the need for extra work, the skilled operator tends to get more overtime. Or he takes a second job, as a "moonlighter."

According to Department of Labor surveys, there are now some 23 million Americans or a full third of the working force who are employed more than 40 hours a week. Some 13 million do more than 48 hours of work. Now, if the extra work beyond 35 hours a week were to be shared out among the five million unemployed, the job problem that faces America would not be entirely solved. But it would be much more manageable.

The Chase Manhattan economists, however, in analyzing the nature of "moonlighting," show why a "share the work" program cannot succeed. Of the 23 million people who now put in more than 40 hours a week, some five million are entrepreneurs. They work long hours, whether on their own farms or in their own small businesses, as a matter of profit-and-loss necessity.

Then there are the three million "moonlighters." They feel they need the extra money to support their families in an inflationary era. A million of these moonlighters are self-employed in their second jobs. Others have professional skills that make their employment a "must" for those who pay them their second salaries. It is obvious that no law could be framed in a free country to prevent the three million moonlighters from exercising their God-given rights to the fruits of personal initiatives.

Next come the 15 million wage and salary workers with one job each that carries with it considerable overtime. Four million of these are professional and managerial men and women, and their extra work cannot in the nature of things be parcelled out among those without professional training, as the Chase Bank economists say. "It's the old story: our skill requirements have outstripped our educational attainments."

The 11 million non-professional overtime workers who might be forced, by company pressure, to share their work with the unemployed are not likely to be touched. For it is to the interest of an employer to pay his existing workers overtime rather than to take on new people who will have to be provided with fringe benefits and Social Security checkoffs. Moreover, many unions frown on spreading the work. The incentive to join a labor union is to place one's self in a favored position for getting all the work and money that one can.

It is not to be argued, of course, that new investment created by money saved on tax cuts will fail to produce extra jobs. But insofar as those new jobs require skills, they will be a temptation to further overtime and more moonlighting. There is no way of getting around this as long as the five million unemployed remain largely unemployable in an advanced and increasingly automated economic system.

This is not to say that a tax cut is to be deplored. It could add health to the present economic system by stretching it to capacity and by giving moonlighters and overtime workers even more purchasing power. It could serve as a cushion against a future downturn, but the problem, as the Chase economists see it, remains one of education if the currently unemployed are to be put to work.

Busy Days Ahead For The New Sheriff

Top Business And Labor Leaders Enthusiastic About Lyndon Johnson

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It's been well publicized that President Johnson had two sessions last week with American business leaders and American labor leaders. Exactly what happened at the two closed door meetings has not been publicized.

Most unique development was the private support which business leaders gave Johnson. Many came away just as enthusiastic as the labor leaders, who were considered in Johnson's corner in the first place.

Johnson gave a short talk to the Business Advisory Council, which includes the top brass of the business world, then sat down in the cabinet room to chat with them individually. This was what they seemed to enjoy most.

In the group was Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs and the man who raised $3,000,000 to finance the big radio-TV political punch of Eisenhower's 1952 campaign.

Also present was Henry Ford II, head of the far flung automobile empire who was a strong Eisenhower-Nixon supporer. His former associate, Ernie Breech, who has guided the destinies of both Ford and General Motors and is now chairman of Trans World Airlines, was also present.

All expressed their appreciation of the new president. But the man who seemed most appreciative was Crawford Greenwalt, head of the giant Du Pont Company. The Du Pont family is one of the heaviest contributors to the Republican Party, usually tosses about $200,000 into the GOP kitty at every election. During recent years they have been battling against the Justice Department regarding the split up of Du Pont-General Motors stock, a suit begun under the Democrats.

But Greenwalt confided to friends at the White House that the nation was "fortunate" to have a man as well qualified as Johnson standing in the wings ready to take over.

Meany Is Persistent

Johnson's meeting with labor leaders was held one hour earlier, and the President kidded his Secretary of Commerce, Luther Hodges, who sat in on the labor session that he had got here "a little too early" for the business conference.

Other cabinet members who attended both meetings were Secretary of Defense McNamara, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Interior Udall, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman and Secretary of Labor Wirtz.

At the meeting with labor leaders, Johnson did more listening than talking, as AFL-CIO President George Meany outlined his worries over unemployment and automation.

This incidentally was Meany's second session with Johnson since the death of President Kennedy. Johnson had phoned Meany after receiving a sympathetic telegram, had told him he was going to need his support.

"You'll get it," blurted the brusque labor leader.

Later he sought an appointment with Johnson and asked Secretary Wirtz to make it. Wirtz, knowing the tremendous pressures on the new President tried to save his chief, advised Meany to wait. But Meany went over his head direct to the White House, and was advised to meet Johnson at his Spring Valley home, before breakfast and drive with him to the White House.

En route through the early morning traffic, he promised money and manpower for Johnson's re-election, but expressed the hope that the vice presidential running-mate might be sympathetic to labor.

Labor Prays

At the meeting with the top AFL-CIO brass two days later, Meany began the session by saying:

"Mr. President, our first thoughts the other day, after the roof fell in with the assassination of John F. Kennedy, were for you and the great problems you face as his successor. We are here today to tell you that we are behind you 100 per cent. We are citizens first and union members second."

Johnson replied that he was deeply grateful. He recalled that Kennedy had always received "warm-hearted support" from labor. "I need your help even more," he added humbly. "President Kennedy had more talents than I have for this job."

The President suggested that the labor leaders and six cabinet members at the meeting bow their heads in prayer for "the great man we have lost." Everyone stood for a moment in silent meditation.

When Johnson asked for labor's support on civil rights and employment problems, Meany pledged full AFL-CIO cooperation. He went on to talk of his great worries over automation, quoted Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., that the U. S. was losing about 4 million jobs a year as a result of automation.

"When you add this to the rapid growth of employables, you can appreciate the gravity of the situation," said Meany. "It requires 25,000 new jobs a week just to take care of the young people, who are flooding the employment field due to the population explosion.

"Despite what the newspapers say, I am not against automation. I do not believe in breaking labor-saving machinery with sledge hammers, but it is about time that the government, labor, business and the consumer got together in a united, national effort to stop the dangerous rise of joblessness."

Meany said his own answer, and that of labor, was a shorter work week, but that he was ready to listen to alternative solutions. President Johnson replied that Congress would give a big boost to employment by early passage of the tax bill, though this would not solve the whole problem. He expressed deep concern over unemployment, promised further study.

Presidential Succession Law Needs Clarification

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Many of the plans for presidential succession that have been offered thus far seem to ignore the basic principle of government in a republic—that the people should select their chief executive.

This wasn't provided for under the old law and it is not provided for completely under the present law, enacted in 1947, whereby the secretary of state and the other members of the cabinet are designated in a theoretical line of succession following the speaker of the house and the presiding officer of the senate.

Cabinet officers in the United States have never been elected by the people. The vice president, on the other hand, is on the ballot in a national election, and the speaker of the house and the president pro tem of the Senate are chosen by the people's representatives in Congress.

Criticism of the current plan has developed in the last few days because the present speaker happens to be 72 years old and the senate's president pro tem is 85, and because the present line of succession presumably goes back to the cabinet if the speaker and the senate's presiding officer, who have in turn succeeded to the presidency, should die or become disabled while holding that office. But it may also be pointed out that, once the speaker has become president, the next speaker —who would be promptly elected by the house—could be construed to be in line ahead of anybody in the cabinet. It is this anomaly in existing law which needs clarification.

One criticism being mentioned is that, while a vice president who succeeds to the presidency is, of course, of the same party as the departed president, the speaker of the House of Representatives or presiding officer of the Senate might not be. Thus, the party which has been in control of the administration could overnight be removed from executive power. The four-year term for which an administration of one party had been elected would suddenly be ended by the accession of an administration of a different party.

But this merely accentuates the fundamental principle involved. For, when the people have elected a Congress of a particular party, this is an expression of the public will and represents the desires of the people.

Under the Canadian or British system, for instance, if the people vote one party out of power, this means that the prime minister has to leave office at the same time, and a new premier is then selected out of the majority membership of the national legislature. Even if there has been no election, the majority party can change the prime minister, and if the incumbent refuses to resign, the people can decide the issue in an election held to determine whether the dissenters or the members who support the prime minister are right. The people decide.

Cabinet officers in this country usually are selected for their competence in particular fields of executive responsibilty. A secretary of state or a secretary of the treasury is rarely a leader in the Democratic or the Republican Party, and hence has no intimate experience with Congress —something very important in the presidential office.

In Canada, in Great Britain, in Australia, the cabinet which is selected from the party members in a parliament consists as a rule of men who have come up through the ranks of the party—just as Lyndon Johnson did. While in recent years there has been a tendency in this country to put a majority or minority leader from one house of Congress or the other on the ticket as the vice - presidential nominee, no provision has been made for all possible successors to be selected from Congress. The 1947 law does designate the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate to follow the vice president in presidential succession, and both are, of course, party leaders in their respective houses. The speaker is chosen just after the congressional election, held every two years. The president pro tem of the Senate also is elected every two years at the start of a new session of Congress because the seats of one-third of the senate's membership have been up for election.

The present law is satisfactory as far as it goes in providing that the leaders of the two houses of congress are next in line after the vice president. The real defect in it is in the succession beyond these two individuals. This could be a problem if the accidents of fate, including war, should wipe out the top leaders in both branches of the government.

The present statute needs amendment to make it crystal clear that the succession will not go to the cabinet if anything happens to a speaker of the house who has become president, but that the power will definitely pass to the next individual who has been elected speaker of the house or to be president pro tem of the senate. Each of these officials should always be someone in a leadership position who knows the legislative branch of the government and, through his service on congressional committees, has become familiar with departmental problems on the executive side.

The duties of cabinet officers, on the other hand, today are confined pretty much to the routine of their own departments. For that reason, the late President Kennedy held few cabinet meetings. He depended instead, as did other president, on an anonymous staff of presidential assistants who were not nominated for confirmation by the Senate, and in whose selection the people's representatives therefore have had no voice. This weakness has been apparent in many administrations, irrespective of party.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

TATTLE TALE — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy falls somewhat short of overwhelming popularity among some members of his own political party in Congress. One reason is illustrated by the following incident that took place recently.

A Senator was asked by one of Bobby Kennedy's aides for his views on the acceptability of a man from the Senator's state whom the administration was considering nominating to an important government post.

The Senator opposed the appointment and informed the Justice Department why he did so, including an exteremely frank estimate of the man's personality and character.

Within a few hours, the Senator received a communication from the individual involved plainly indicating that he had been informed about the Senator's appraisal of him. It took the Senator some time to regain his composure, but even after he did he went around to some of his Senate Democratic colleagues and told them how the Justice Department had treated a confidence from him.

GIFTS—With all the talk of ethical conduct for Congressmen, it's a wonder that no one missed the question the other day each member of the House found he had received a gift—and from a fellow Congressman, at that. The "gift" was a half pound bag of salted peanuts and the donor was Rep. Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma who was out to publicize the peanut industry that thrives in his congressional district.

Wickersham sent the legislators an accompanying note stressing that the gift was purely non-political, that neither right wing nor left wing was favored. He added puckishly, "I trust you will enjoy them if your staff doesn't eat them first."

What Wickersham didn't say, of course, was that the gift could be construed as a means of saying "nuts to you" to any members who either didn't like Wickersham, didn't like peanuts, or didn't like Oklahoma.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The new President is going to have to learn to lose his temper. He is also going to have to learn to take time off from the job for relaxing exercise. These are important to a Chief Executive. Lyndon Baines Johnson, 55, sustained a severe heart attack several years ago. Almost all of the leading cardiologists agree that a healthy emotional explosion now and then, in addition to exercise which entails walking and concentration on matters other than work are cardiac preventives.

Politically, President Johnson is a horse-trader. He may be more masterful at this art than his mentor, Sam Rayburn. If it can be said that Eisenhower was aloof, Kennedy was inspired, then Johnson is a realist. He will achieve more, in less time, than his predecessors because he is accustomed to button-holing his congressional cronies in the locker room and trading the votes they need for the things he wants.

This is a delicately balanced practice. Reporters who knew Lyndon Johnson when he became Majority Leader of the United States Senate in 1955, feel that his physical trouble started at that point. The Senator had a boiling point, and he began to learn to sit on the lid—to repress it. The lips began to compress into a tight mechanical smile, making liars of the cold anger in the eyes.

Now, more than ever, it is important that the President be empowered to act like other human beings. His high calling does not imply perpetual good humor. He should be allowed to "sound off," to shout, to pound his fist on a desk when he reaches that emotional stage. One of the reasons why he doesn't is because we look upon our President as children regard a benevolent father. We demand a happy, confident face.

Perhaps our mistake is in regarding the President as our government. He is not. He is chief of one branch — the Executive. The other two—the Legislative and the Judicial — are equally important. The power of the Judicial is divided between nine men, the power of the Legislative is broken among all the votes in the House of Representatives and the Senate, whereas the Executive prerogative lies in one hand — the President's.

Woodrow Wilson killed himself by degrees because he took the work too seriously. Herbert Hoover lives on because he devoted his energies to the things which were possible of accomplishment. Franklin D. Roosevelt killed himself trying to be all things to all men. Temperamentally, Harry Truman was best suited to the presidency because he never looked upon the presidency as being more than one branch in a triple-branched tree.

Dwight D. Eisenhower withstood the agony of D-Day and the winning of the war, but his heart faltered in the august silence of the White House. In the final month of President Kennedy's life, he invited me to witness three state functions: (1) the welcome at the White House to the President of Bolivia; (2) the signing of a bill on mental retardation; (3) filming of the color motion pictures of the welcome to Bolivia's president.

All three dissipated seconds and minutes which he had been hoarding. He had given up going to Andrews Field to welcome foreign chiefs of state, and had them flown by helicopter to the south lawn of the White House. He clocked these welcomes to such a fine point that he left his office at the last moment, and strode briskly across the gravel drive just in time to take the hand of the visitor as he stepped from a car.

He was irritated by long receiving lines. He stood bareheaded in a chill wind to say the friendly things about "our nation and yours." In the signing of the bill, he worked in his office until the newsmen and photographers were ready, then he left his office and used a couple of dozen pens to sign it. The smile hardly masked his vexation as he passed out pen after pen as mementos to political leaders and friends.

The movies of the welcoming ceremonies — even though they were in color, were ready the following afternoon. The President of Bolivia arrived with his retinue; there were formal greetings; President Kennedy stopped work and smiled happily as the projector was set up, and then sat with a man whose language he could not speak to see motion pictures in which both had participated. Mr. Kennedy gave the film to his guest.

He enjoyed none of this, although he had the highest regard for President Paz, and for Bolivia. President Johnson, who has a heart history, is going to have to wait through these things, and hundreds of renditions of "Hail To The Chief," "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the national anthems of scores of nations.

There is no doubt in my mind that he will not be able to endure the time-wasting chores unless he learns, on occasion, to give full vent to his feelings, and unless he cultivates a hobby which will take him out of the office into warm sunshine, where care evaporates and men can josh and rib each other without fear of being quoted . . .

Evaluation Of New Medications Takes Time

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us are aware of the limitations, dangers, and side reactions of medicines. There is no perfect drug and we should be suspicious of any product offered as a cure-all for every imaginable malady. The intelligent person knows that pharmacists and physicians must try new preparations over a long period before adequate evaluation can be made.

Several drugs have been removed from the market because they proved to be too dangerous, even after years of usage. Thalidomide had passed all the usual tests as a safe and effective drug. Time demonstrated that it damaged the fetus when used by women during the first four months of pregnancy.

Physicians have learned from centuries of experience to rely upon time. Most of the sensational stories on the remarkable value of a new drug represent exaggerations to attract reader attention. Many are planted by the manufacturer to introduce the product and promote sales. News releases emphasize the good qualities and omit the bad; the latter may be an honest omission because the remedy has not been used on enough patients over a long period to uncover the dangers and limitations.

Reputable pharmaceutical houses take no chances and avoid undue publicity until they are reasonably sure that every claim for their product can be backed up. They depend upon reliable and honest medical research teams to obtain the facts. After all, it is the practicing physician who is the final judge and he has nothing to gain and everything to lose when he prescribes a worthless or hazardous medication.

Drugs go through cycles of popularity. Vitamins, for example, work best when they compensate for actual deficiencies but are of little value and occasionally are harmful if the body has its quota. When they are used as a remedy for almost every ailment, the physician is caught in the middle; patients may demand a vitamin for a disorder that has little or nothing to do with the cause.

SPINAL TAP

E. J. K. writes: Why is a spinal puncture a prerequisite in a clinic before mental illness is diagnosed?

REPLY

Because of the possibility that a specific infection or brain lesion is responsible for the mental condition. This test is not always deemed necessary so that the term "prerequisite" is not apropos.

DIET FOR DIABETICS

A. L. writes: Can a diabetic safely take reducing pills?

kEPLY

Yes, but the diabetic diet takes into account the ideal weight of the individual. If you are too stout at present, you will reduce by sticking to the diet.

TOMORROW: The vulnerable gall bladder.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Harpo Marx's first professional stage appearance was in the basement of his flat off Second Avenue in New York. The play was "Quo Vadis Upside Down," a travesty written by Harpo's uncle, Al Shean (of Gallagher and Shean). The admission price was one cat!

It appears that there was a mouse plague in the neighborhood, and store proprietors were paying a penny apiece for cats. So Harpo (aged 12) and an older brother named Groucho decided to cash in on the demand. Harpo recalls that the performance grossed several cats at the box office, but that the troupe netted only four cents in profits. Three cats got away.

Beall Downs LaSalle, 74-58; Romney Spoils Sentinels' Debut, 81-65

Piedmont Whips Petersburg For Second PVC Win

Bruce, Fort Ashby And Mathias Cop Conference Tests

By TED TROXELL

A hot streak of 13 straight points midway in the third period propelled Beall's Mountaineers to a 74-58 victory over LaSalle last night at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium. It was the Frostburg cagers' second Potomac Valley Conference decision in as many starts.

Defending PVC co-champion Piedmont, beaten last Friday by Beall, bounced back with an 80-41 rout of Petersburg on its home court and the Bruce Bulldogs made their first conference appearance with a 53-48 overtime win over Elk Garden at Westernport.

Fort Ashby's Golden Eagles slipped past Ridgeley, 67-65, on the losers' floor for their first PVC conquest and Mathias nudged visiting Circleville, 78-75.

Six-seven center John Smouse and reserve guard Danny Jones were the big factors in the spree during which the Mountaineers forged in front 51-36 after holding a precarious two-point edge.

Smouse Gets Tough

Smouse, who contributed little to Beall's attack prior to intermission, got tough when it counted and hit for seven points in the drive. The big senior tapped in a timely bucket and turned a rebound into a three-pointer that made it 50-36.

Jones cashed in on a one-hander from outside and quickly followed with a steal and subsequent field goal. He maintained the pace in the fourth quarter, accounting for nine of the visitors' 23 tallies in the last eight minutes.

Five Mountaineer players were in double figures. Ronnie Frazier, whose line drive jump shots kept LaSalle off balance in the first half, wound up with 16. Smouse and Jones canned 15 apiece. Dennis Bartlett came through with 14 and Bob Baker had ten.

Bill Lueck, who came off the bench at the start of the second frame and almost single-handed put the Explorers back into the thick of things, was his team's only double-digit man. The clever backcourt performer collected 22 points, 14 in the second period.

Piedmont's Lions roared away to a quick 12-0 lead and romped to their second PVC conquest in three games.

Ten Lions Score

Ten players crashed the scoring column for the Lions, led by Larrry Patterson with 18 tallies. Jim Brodengeyer pumped in 23 to provide the only bright spot as the Vikings suffered their first setback in three contests.

A field goal by Wayne Martin in the final half minute pulled Elk Garden into an overtime-forcing 48-48 deadlock, but that was the extent of the visitors' scoring as the Bulldogs ticked off five points in the extra session.

Gary Smith and Vernon Miller paced Bruce with 16 and 15 points, respectively, while Charles Keller obtained 14 and Ron Thompson collected ten for the Elks.

Fort Ashby overcame a six-point (38-32) halftime deficit for its initial triumph. The Blackhawks muffed an opportunity to knot the score, missing several floor attempts in the last minute.

Ray Knotts and Larry Spencer accounted for 41 of the Eagles' markers. Paul Harris, with 19, was Ridgeley's top gunner.

Carl Fischer, MA Loop Hurler Of 1927, Dies

Southpaw Was With 5 Clubs In Majors

MEDINA, N.Y. (UPI) — Charles William (Carl) Fischer, 58, a lefthander who won 46 games for five American League baseball teams during the 1930s, suffered a fatal heart attack at his home here Tuesday.

Fischer, who appeared in 191 big league games from 1930 to 1937 and compiled an overall 46-50 record, saw service with the Washington Senators, St. Louis Browns, Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians. His best major league season was 1931 when he posted a 13-9 slate in his second year with the Senators.

Funeral services will be held Thursday in Albion with burial scheduled in Royalton, N.Y. He is survived by his widow, the former Grace Reynolds of Middleport, N.Y.

Carl Fischer, who died yesterday of a heart attack at Medina, N.Y., pitched for Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic League in 1927, the year the Cumberland Colts won their first pennant in organized ball. Piedmont Whips Petersburg For Second PVC Win

By TED TROXELL

A hot streak of 13 straight points midway in the third period propelled Beall's Mountaineers to a 74-58 victory over LaSalle last night at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium. It was the Frostburg cagers' second Potomac Valley Conference decision in as many starts.

Defending PVC co-champion Piedmont, beaten last Friday by Beall, bounced back with an 80-41 rout of Petersburg on its home court and the Bruce Bulldogs made their first conference appearance with a 53-48 overtime win over Elk Garden at Westernport.

Fort Ashby's Golden Eagles slipped past Ridgeley, 67-65, on the losers' floor for their first PVC conquest and Mathias nudged visiting Circleville, 78-75.

Six-seven center John Smouse and reserve guard Danny Jones were the big factors in the spree during which the Mountaineers forged in front 51-36 after holding a precarious two-point edge.

Smouse Gets Tough

Smouse, who contributed little to Beall's attack prior to intermission, got tough when it counted and hit for seven points in the drive. The big senior tapped in a timely bucket and turned a rebound into a three-pointer that made it 50-36.

Jones cashed in on a one-hander from outside and quickly followed with a steal and subsequent field goal. He maintained the pace in the fourth quarter, accounting for nine of the visitors' 23 tallies in the last eight minutes.

Five Mountaineer players were in double figures. Ronnie Frazier, whose line drive jump shots kept LaSalle off balance in the first half, wound up with 16. Smouse and Jones canned 15 apiece. Dennis Bartlett came through with 14 and Bob Baker had ten.

Bill Lueck, who came off the bench at the start of the second frame and almost single-handed put the Explorers back into the thick of things, was his team's only double-digit man. The clever backcourt performer collected 22 points, 14 in the second period.

Piedmont's Lions roared away to a quick 12-0 lead and romped to their second PVC conquest in three games.

Ten Lions Score

Ten players crashed the scoring column for the Lions, led by Larrry Patterson with 18 tallies. Jim Brodengeyer pumped in 23 to provide the only bright spot as the Vikings suffered their first setback in three contests.

A field goal by Wayne Martin in the final half minute pulled Elk Garden into an overtime-forcing 48-48 deadlock, but that was the extent of the visitors' scoring as the Bulldogs ticked off five points in the extra session.

Gary Smith and Vernon Miller paced Bruce with 16 and 15 points, respectively, while Charles Keller obtained 14 and Ron Thompson collected ten for the Elks.

Fort Ashby overcame a six-point (38-32) halftime deficit for its initial triumph. The Blackhawks muffed an opportunity to knot the score, missing several floor attempts in the last minute.

Ray Knotts and Larry Spencer accounted for 41 of the Eagles' markers. Paul Harris, with 19, was Ridgeley's top gunner.

Mathias forward Richard Strawderman hauled down PVC point-making honors for the night, banging home 31 in his club's first victory after a pair of defeats. Ron Williams amassed 26 for the Indians.

MEDINA, N.Y. (UPI) — Charles William (Carl) Fischer, 58, a lefthander who won 46 games for five American League baseball teams during the 1930s, suffered a fatal heart attack at his home here Tuesday.

Fischer, who appeared in 191 big league games from 1930 to 1937 and compiled an overall 46-50 record, saw service with the Washington Senators, St. Louis Browns, Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians. His best major league season was 1931 when he posted a 13-9 slate in his second year with the Senators.

Carl Fischer, who died yesterday of a heart attack at Medina, N.Y., pitched for Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic League in 1927, the year the Cumberland Colts won their first pennant in organized ball. Fischer won 10 and lost 11 games for the Johnnies that year, fanned 133 and had an earned run average of 2.45.

Fischer won 38 and lost 32 for Newark of the International League in 1928, 1929 and 1930 and was sold to Washington late in the 1930 season.

Houston Colts Purchase Nellie Fox From Chicago White Sox

Pale Hose Buy Murphy, Golden, Minor Leaguers

Veteran Expected To Stabilize Young Infield Of Texans

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Nellie Fox, long-time, Chicago White Sox second baseman, was traded to the Houston Colts for two farm hands Tuesday.

Technically, the peppery Fox —who will be 36 on Christmas Day and reportedly drew a $42,500 salary last season—was sold to Houston. The White Sox, in turn, purchased pitcher Jim Golden and outfielder Dan Murphy, $100,000 Chicago Cub bonus baby, from Houston's Oklahoma City farm club.

Stabilizes Infield

"Actually, we may be doing Fox a great favor," said General Manager Ed Short. "He may play two or three more regular seasons for Paul Richards (Houston general manager), who really wanted him to stabilize the young Colt infield."

Short hinted Fox might have been dislodged as a Chicago regular next spring.

"In effect, this was a trade of Fox for Golden and Murphy," said Short. "What money was involved balanced off."

The interleague deal was swung with Short unable to inform Fox, deer hunting in the mountains near his Chambersburg, Pa., home. Recent rumors had Fox going to Indianapolis as manager, but the post went to Les Moss and Short said he never had discussed the job with Fox.

"I broke the news to Nellie's wife, Joanne," said Short.

Mrs. Fox told reporters "I'm happy he's going back with Paul Richards."

Richards managed the White Sox from 1951 through part of 1954, taking over the club one year after Fox was traded to Chicago by the Philadelphia A's for catcher Joe Tipton.

Lifetime Average .289

Fox has a lifetime average of .289 for 15 big league seasons and hit .300 or higher six times, but batted only .260 this past season. He was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1959, when the White Sox won the pennant, and played in 14 All-Star games.

SOLD—Veteran second baseman Nelson Fox, 35, was sold yesterday by the Chicago White Sox to the Houston Colts for an undisclosed price. Fox, who has played for the Chisox for 14 years, has appeared in 14 All-Star games and owns a .289 lifetime major league batting average. (AP Photofax)

AFL Officials Flip Coins To Settle Playoff Muddle

Six Teams Still In Running For Division Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — With six of their eight teams still in the running for divisional titles, American Football League officials flipped coins Tuesday to set up dates and sites for possible playoffs.

There is a possibility that San Diego, 9-3-0, and Oakland, 8-4-0, could tie for the Western title when the season closes Dec. 22.

All four of the Eastern teams —Boston, 7-5-1; Buffalo, 6-6-1; Houston, 6-6-0, and New York, 5-6-1 — still have a chance to win. In this division there are possibilities of two and three-way playoffs.

A three-way tie would force a postponement of the already once - postponed championship game from Jan. 5 to Jan. 12.

The whole thing could be settled during the regular season if Boston beats the Chiefs at Kansas City Saturday and San Diego defeats the Oilers at Houston Sunday. Then Boston would meet San Diego at San Diego, Jan. 5.

Like the National Football League, the AFL decides its titles on won-lost percentages.

The coin flipping was done at the AFL office by Commissioner Foss, Assistant Commissioner Milt Woodard and Jack Horrigan, the public relations director.

Here are the playoff possibilities:

WESTERN DIVISION

If San Diego and Oakland tie, playoff at San Diego, Dec. 29.

EASTERN DIVISION

Two-team ties

If Boston and Buffalo tie, playoff at Buffalo, Dec. 28.

If Houston and Boston tie, playoff at Boston, Dec. 28.

If New York and Houston tie, playoff at Houston, Dec. 28.

Three-team ties

If Boston, Buffalo and Houston tie, Boston will play at Houston, Dec. 28, with the winner playing Buffalo at Buffalo, Jan. 5.

If New York, Boston and Houston tie, Houston will play at New York Dec. 28 with Boston meeting with winner in the winner's city Jan. 5.

The remaining regular games on the AFL schedule:

Saturday, Dec. 14—Buffalo at New York, Boston at Kansas City.

Sunday, Dec. 15—San Diego at Houston, Denver at Oakland.

Sunday, Dec. 22—Houston at Oakland, Denver at San Diego, New York at Kansas City.

Texas Wins Grid Title

Must Prove It Again On New Year's Day

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Texas Longhorns are the 1963 national college football champions, but they must prove it again on New Year's Day.

That's the day they play second-ranked Navy in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and the Midshipmen, with the legendary Roger Staubach, contend they need some convincing.

This is the second straight year that the country's No. 1 and No. 2 teams have clashed in a bowl game. Last year, Southern California, top-ranked, won a 42-37 thriller from second-ranked Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl.

Texas, the only major team to complete the season without a defeat or tie, was the overwhelming pick of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters in the final Associated Press poll.

The Longhorns, who swept past 10 opponents, received 34 first-place votes and 460 points compared with 10 firsts and 418 points for Navy. Pittsburgh, which finished with a 9-1 record and empty-handed as far as bowls are concerned, got the other five top votes but fell behind Illinois in the final ratings.

Illinois, the Big Ten champ headed for a meeting with Washington in the Rose Bowl, received 361 points for third place to 340 for Pitt. Points are awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis.

The Top Ten football teams with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8-7-6-4-3-2-1 basis:

Houston Colts Purchase Nellie Fox From Chicago White Sox

Pale Hose Buy Murphy, Golden, Minor Leaguers

Veteran Expected To Stabilize Young Infield Of Texans

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Nellie Fox, long-time, Chicago White Sox second baseman, was traded to the Houston Colts for two farm hands Tuesday.

Technically, the peppery Fox—who will be 36 on Christmas Day and reportedly drew a $42,500 salary last season—was sold to Houston. The White Sox, in turn, purchased pitcher Jim Golden and outfielder Dan Murphy, $100,000 Chicago Cub bonus baby, from Houston's Oklahoma City farm club.

Stabilizes Infield

"Actually, we may be doing Fox a great favor," said General Manager Ed Short. "He may play two or three more regular seasons for Paul Richards (Houston general manager), who really wanted him to stabilize the young Colt infield."

Short hinted Fox might have been dislodged as a Chicago regular next spring.

"In effect, this was a trade of Fox for Golden and Murphy," said Short. "What money was involved balanced off."

The interleague deal was swung with Short unable to inform Fox, deer hunting in the mountains near his Chambersburg, Pa., home. Recent rumors had Fox going to Indianapolis as manager, but the post went to Les Moss and Short said he never had discussed the job with Fox.

"I broke the news to Nellie's wife, Joanne," said Short.

Mrs. Fox told reporters "I'm happy he's going back with Paul Richards."

Lifetime Average .289

Fox has a lifetime average of .289 for 15 big league seasons and hit .300 or higher six times, but batted only .260 this past season. He was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1959, when the White Sox won the pennant, and played in 14 All-Star games.

SOLD—Veteran second baseman Nelson Fox, 35, was sold yesterday by the Chicago White Sox to the Houston Colts for an undisclosed price. Fox, who has played for the Chisox for 14 years, has appeared in 14 All-Star games and owns a .289 lifetime major league batting average. (AP Photofax)

Deer Kills Slump To 7 On Fifth Day, Season Total 629

Deer kills in Allegany county hit a new low for the current season yesterday when only seven fell before the guns of nimrods on the fifth day of the nine-day season.

Maryland State Police barracks at LaVale checked three, Shipway's on Green Ridge had a like number and only one was examined at Hess Service Station at Oldtown. The four other checking stations, one in Allegany county and three in Washington county, drew a blank as far as Allegany county kills were concerned.

The Game and Inland Fish Department reported total kills, including Monday, were: Allegany, 622, Garrett 507 and Washington 297.

A total of 629 whitetails have been slain in Allegany county during the five days of the season.

Surkont Retiring From Baseball

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — Max Surkont, former Boston and Milwaukee Braves pitcher, announced Tuesday he was retiring from professional baseball after 26 years.

Surkont, pitcher-coach of Buffalo in the International League, announced the decision at his home.

"It was manager or nothing. That job came open but I didn't apply for it. They had my phone number if they wanted me," Surkont said.

Surkont said former St. Louis Cardinals star Whitey Kurowski was given the job instead of him.

Goalie Is Recalled

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League recalled goalie Gilles Boisvert from St. Paul of the Central League Tuesday.

Manager Terry Reardon of the Clippers said Boisvert will remain the rest of the season.

Rookie Is Honored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Linebacker Jerry Hillebrand, former University of Colorado star who sat out the 1962 National Football League season on the taxi squad, Tuesday was named the New York Giants' Rookie-of-the-Year for 1963.

AFL Officials Flip Coins To Settle Playoff Muddle

Six Teams Still In Running For Division Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — With six of their eight teams still in the running for divisional titles, American Football League officials flipped coins Tuesday to set up dates and sites for possible playoffs.

There is a possibility that San Diego, 9-3-0, and Oakland, 8-4-0, could tie for the Western title when the season closes Dec. 22.

All four of the Eastern teams—Boston, 7-5-1; Buffalo, 6-6-1; Houston, 6-6-0, and New York, 5-6-1 — still have a chance to win. In this division there are possibilities of two and three-way playoffs.

A three-way tie would force a postponement of the already once - postponed championship game from Jan. 5 to Jan. 12.

The whole thing could be settled during the regular season if Boston beats the Chiefs at Kansas City Saturday and San Diego defeats the Oilers at Houston Sunday. Then Boston would meet San Diego at San Diego, Jan. 5.

Like the National Football League, the AFL decides its titles on won-lost percentages.

The coin flipping was done at the AFL office by Commissioner Foss, Assistant Commissioner Milt Woodard and Jack Horrigan, the public relations director.

Here are the playoff possibilities:

WESTERN DIVISION

If San Diego and Oakland tie, playoff at San Diego, Dec. 29.

EASTERN DIVISION

Two-team ties

If Boston and Buffalo tie, playoff at Buffalo, Dec. 28.

If Houston and Boston tie, playoff at Boston, Dec. 28.

If New York and Houston tie, playoff at Houston, Dec. 28.

Three-team ties

If Boston, Buffalo and Houston tie, Boston will play at Houston, Dec. 28, with the winner playing Buffalo at Buffalo, Jan. 5.

If New York, Boston and Houston tie, Houston will play at New York Dec. 28 with Boston meeting with winner in the winner's city Jan. 5.

The remaining regular games on the AFL schedule:

Saturday, Dec. 14—Buffalo at New York, Boston at Kansas City.

Sunday, Dec. 15—San Diego at Houston, Denver at Oakland.

Sunday, Dec. 22—Houston at Oakland, Denver at San Diego, New York at Kansas City.

Giants Given 7-Point Edge Over Steelers

Winner To Qualify For NFL Playoff

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Giants have been made 7-point favorites by the oddsmen for their all-or-nothing National Football League game Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steelers at Yankee Stadium.

The winner of this game will qualify for the NFL's championship playoff. The Giants also can clinch the Eastern Division title by playing a tie.

Packers Given Edge

For Saturday afternoon's nationally - televised game on the West Coast, the Green Bay Packers are the choice over the San Francisco Forty Niners by 17 points.

In Sunday's other NFL games, the Bears are picked by 6 over the Detroit Lions at Chicago; the Colts are nine over the Los Angeles Rams at Baltimore; the Eagles are one point over the Minnesota Vikings at Philadelphia; the St. Louis Cardinals are picked by nine at home over the Dallas Cowboys, and the Cleveland Browns are favored by eight over the Redskins at Washington.

Boston, Buffalo Picked

In Saturday afternoon's American Football League games, the Boston Patriots are favored by two points over the Chiefs at Kansas City and the Buffalo Bills are five over the Jets at New York.

On Sunday, the Oakland Raiders are picked by 13 at home over the Denver Broncos and the San Diego Chargers are four over the Oilers at Houston.

Koufax Cops Most Important Hurling Honors In National

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers took virtually all of the important National League pitching honors in 1963, including the earned run championship for the second straight time, the final official averages confirmed Wednesday.

The brilliant left-hander, winner of the Cy Young Award as the majors' outstanding pitcher, posted a 1.88 earned run mark, bettered his National League record by striking out 306 batters, set a big league mark for shutouts by a southpaw with 11 and tied San Francisco's Juan Marichal for most victories with 25. Koufax lost five.

Koufax permitted 65 earned runs in 311 innings last season, becoming the first to win two consecutive earned run titles since Cincinnati's Bucky Walters in 1939-40.

Texas Wins Grid Title

Must Prove It Again On New Year's Day

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Texas Longhorns are the 1963 national college football champions, but they must prove it again on New Year's Day.

That's the day they play second-ranked Navy in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and the Midshipmen, with the legendary Roger Staubach, contend they need some convincing.

This is the second straight year that the country's No. 1 and No. 2 teams have clashed in a bowl game. Last year, Southern California, top-ranked, won a 42-37 thriller from second-ranked Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl.

Texas, the only major team to complete the season without a defeat or tie, was the overwhelming pick of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters in the final Associated Press poll.

The Longhorns, who swept past 10 opponents, received 34 first-place votes and 460 points compared with 10 firsts and 418 points for Navy. Pittsburgh, which finished with a 9-1 record and empty-handed as far as bowls are concerned, got the other five top votes but fell behind Illinois in the final ratings.

Illinois, the Big Ten champ headed for a meeting with Washington in the Rose Bowl, received 361 points for third place to 340 for Pitt. Points are awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis.

The Top Ten football teams with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8-7-6-4-3-2-1 basis:

Alston To Get Comiskey Award

CHICAGO (UPI)—Walt Alston, manager of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, will receive the J. Louis Comiskey award for "long and meritorious service" to baseball at the baseball writers dinner Jan. 12, it was announced Tuesday.

The Comiskey Trophy is the oldest awarded by the Chicago Writers, starting in 1940 when it was presented to the rookie of the year. In 1950 the basis for its representation was changed to meritorious service.

Two other awards to be made at the dinner were announced previously, to Dodger pitcher Sandy Koufax as World Series hero and the headline award to Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Birds Get Favorable Report On Estrada

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles got encouraging news Tuesday from a doctor who examined pitcher Chuck Estrada. The right - hander's pitching arm was operated on Sept. 25.

Estrada was advised to start throwing a baseball daily during the winter, although not at full speed or curves.

Estrada himself reported his arm felt fine. "It really hurt" before the operation to remove a bone spur on his elbow, he said.

The 25 - year - old Estrada pitched only 31 innings for the Orioles last season and was unavailable after June 1.

'Skins Sign Taylor, No. 1 Draft Choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins Tuesday signed halfback Charlie Taylor of Arizona State, their No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft, to a 1964 contract.

Taylor, who averaged 5.4 yards per rush during the past season, also was the No. 2 pick of the Houston Oilers in the rival American Football League.

Taylor said the Oilers had offered him "about the same" as Washington.

"I picked the Redskins because I've always wanted to play in the NFL," he added.

Taylor is believed to have signed for about $15,000 plus a $5,000 bonus. Washington, like other NFL clubs, does not reveal contract details.

Marauders Play Campers In 7th Game Of Series

Trojans Play Essex Here; Moorefield To Visit Keyser

Allegany High School's Campers open their basketball season tonight with Bishop Guilfoyle High School of Altoona, Pa., providing the opposition at Campobello at 8 p. m.

Pete Elliott and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

The Campers copped the triple crown of basketball last season when they won the city, W.M.I. League and state Class A championships, bagged their last 12 games of the season and wound up with a 20-4 record.

Vandy Heads Holdovers

Allegany lost Jimmy Bell, Doug Shook, Mickey Robinson and Larry Snyder but retained Steve Vandenberg, who collected 581 points in his sophomore year, set an all-time W.M.I. League record of 260 points in 10 games, and Larry Miller, the other regulars on the championship squad. Coach Chester G. Payne, beginning his 7th season as cage mentor at Campobello, expects to select his starting lineup from Vandenburg, Larry Miller and Lee Miller. Jim Willis, Paul Light, Jim Arrowood and Terry Lease, all of whom saw service with the 1962-63 team. All are seniors but Vandy. Light was ailing last season and got into only two games. Lease was injured in football but has been working out with the squad.

Bishop Guilfoyle, under a new coach, Joe Benton, has started off well this season winning three of four games played to date. The Marauders, who also play Allegany in football, won their first three games from Tyrone, 41-37, Juniata Valley, 67-55 and Lewistown, 72-44, then dropped a 63-45 decision to Tyrone in a return engagement.

Miller Scores 108

Altoona's big scoring man is Eddie "Red" Miller, who is averaging 27 points a game, having scored 108 in the first four tilts. The Altoona team's other first stringers are Ray Keech, Bob Taylor, Doug Meintel and Tom Frank.

Allegany and Altoona will be tangling for the seventh time in a series that began in 1960-61. The Campers have won 5 out of 6 games, their only loss coming in the contest at Altoona two years ago.

College Contest Here

In another game here tonight, Allegany Community College, makes its second start of the season against Essex (Md.) Junior College. This is the first of 18 games Coach Alan Stockholm's floormen will play in the Tri-State Junior College Conference this season. Potomac State and Hagerstown Junior College are in the same circuit. The Trojans opened their schedule with a 79-69 win over Altoona Campus.

Two other high school games appear on tonight's card. Moorefield's Yellowjackets engage Keyser High's Golden Tornado in a P.V.C. tilt at Keyser while Bayard High invades Preston county to battle the Rowlesburg High School River Lions.

Keyser is 1-1 and Moorefield 0-1. Bayard holds decisions over Tunnelton and Beverly. Rowlesburg opened with a 63-35 win over Newburg Friday night.

Lucchesi To Pilot Little Rock Team

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies announced Tuesday the return of Frank Lucchesi as manager of their Little Rock farm and the signing of outfielder Richie Allen and pitcher Rick Quiroz.

Lucchesi, in the Phils farm system for nine years, led Little Rock to a third place finish in the International League last season. The club will be in the Pacific Coast League next year.

He finished first at Williamsport 1960 and 1961, and at Chattanooga in 1962.

Judge Concerned Over Excessiveness In Libel Judgment

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal district court judge said Tuesday he was concerned about the question of excessiveness in a $3.06 million libel judgment athletic director at the University of Georgia.

"Excessiveness is bothering me in this case—I'll be frank with you," Judge Lewis R. Morgan told opposing attorneys at a hearing on a retrial motion.

Judge Morgan gave no indication of when he might rule on Curtis Publishing Co.'s motions for a new trial and to set aside a jury verdict of last August.

The jury awarded Butts $3 million punitive damages and $60,000 compensatory damages for a Saturday Evening Post article charging Butts and Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama rigged the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Judge Morgan, who presided at the libel trial, said he did not believe he had authority to reduce the amount of the award. He indicated the amount was his chief concern despite about 30 grounds claimed by the Post as errors in the trial.

Marauders Play Campers In 7th Game Of Series

Trojans Play Essex Here; Moorefield To Visit Keyser

Allegany High School's Campers open their basketball season tonight with Bishop Guilfoyle High School of Altoona, Pa., providing the opposition at Campobello at 8 p. m.

Pete Elliott and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

The Campers copped the triple crown of basketball last season when they won the city, W.M.I. League and state Class A championships, bagged their last 12 games of the season and wound up with a 20-4 record.

Vandy Heads Holdovers

Allegany lost Jimmy Bell, Doug Shook, Mickey Robinson and Larry Snyder but retained Steve Vandenberg, who collected 581 points in his sophomore year, set an all-time W.M.I. League record of 260 points in 10 games, and Larry Miller, the other regulars on the championship squad. Coach Chester G. Payne, beginning his 7th season as cage mentor at Campobello, expects to select his starting lineup from Vandenburg, Larry Miller and Lee Miller. Jim Willis, Paul Light, Jim Arrowood and Terry Lease, all of whom saw service with the 1962-63 team. All are seniors but Vandy. Light was ailing last season and got into only two games. Lease was injured in football but has been working out with the squad.

Bishop Guilfoyle, under a new coach, Joe Benton, has started off well this season winning three of four games played to date. The Marauders, who also play Allegany in football, won their first three games from Tyrone, 41-37, Juniata Valley, 67-55 and Lewistown, 72-44, then dropped a 63-45 decision to Tyrone in a return engagement.

Miller Scores 108

Altoona's big scoring man is Eddie "Red" Miller, who is averaging 27 points a game, having scored 108 in the first four tilts. The Altoona team's other first stringers are Ray Keech, Bob Taylor, Doug Meintel and Tom Frank.

Allegany and Altoona will be tangling for the seventh time in a series that began in 1960-61. The Campers have won 5 out of 6 games, their only loss coming in the contest at Altoona two years ago.

College Contest Here

In another game here tonight, Allegany Community College, makes its second start of the season against Essex (Md.) Junior College. This is the first of 18 games Coach Alan Stockholm's floormen will play in the Tri-State Junior College Conference this season. Potomac State and Hagerstown Junior College are in the same circuit. The Trojans opened their schedule with a 79-69 win over Altoona Campus.

Two other high school games appear on tonight's card. Moorefield's Yellowjackets engage Keyser High's Golden Tornado in a P.V.C. tilt at Keyser while Bayard High invades Preston county to battle the Rowlesburg High School River Lions.

Keyser is 1-1 and Moorefield 0-1. Bayard holds decisions over Tunnelton and Beverly. Rowlesburg opened with a 63-35 win over Newburg Friday night.

Lucchesi To Pilot Little Rock Team

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Phillies announced Tuesday the return of Frank Lucchesi as manager of their Little Rock farm and the signing of outfielder Richie Allen and pitcher Rick Quiroz.

Lucchesi, in the Phils farm system for nine years, led Little Rock to a third place finish in the International League last season. The club will be in the Pacific Coast League next year.

He finished first at Williamsport 1960 and 1961, and at Chattanooga in 1962.

Judge Concerned Over Excessiveness In Libel Judgment

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal district court judge said Tuesday he was concerned about the question of excessiveness in a $3.06 million libel judgment athletic director at the University of Georgia.

"Excessiveness is bothering me in this case—I'll be frank with you," Judge Lewis R. Morgan told opposing attorneys at a hearing on a retrial motion.

Judge Morgan gave no indication of when he might rule on Curtis Publishing Co.'s motions for a new trial and to set aside a jury verdict of last August.

The jury awarded Butts $3 million punitive damages and $60,000 compensatory damages for a Saturday Evening Post article charging Butts and Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama rigged the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Judge Morgan, who presided at the libel trial, said he did not believe he had authority to reduce the amount of the award. He indicated the amount was his chief concern despite about 30 grounds claimed by the Post as errors in the trial.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Clara M. Landis who passed away one year ago today, December 11, 1962.
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb
He gently closed her loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine."
Her weary hours, her days of pain
Her weary nights are past
Her ever-patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last
Sadly missed by her Daughters, Son and Grandchildren

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Clara M. Landis who passed away one year ago today, December 11, 1962.
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb
He gently closed her loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine."
Her weary hours, her days of pain
Her weary nights are past
Her ever-patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Sadly missed by her Daughters, Son and Grandchildren

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

NELLIE M. ROBERTS, 839 Columbia Avenue, Cumberland, Maryland, Complainant vs. EDWARD J. ROBERTS, Address unknown, Defendant.

NO. 27155 EQUITY

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

This is to give notice that on the 9th day of December, 1963, a bill of complaint was filed in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, by the complainant against the defendant, whose last known address was Mt. Storm, West Virginia, but whose present address is unknown. The petition alleges in substance that the parties were married at Cumberland, Maryland, on July 13, 1963; that prior to and at the time of the marriage defendant did not intend to perform his marital obligations and did not inform complainant thereof but on the contrary fraudulently induced complainant to enter into the marriage knowing that he would not permit the marriage to be consummated; that the alleged marriage has never been consummated because of defendant's refusal; that complainant has been a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, for more than two years prior to the bringing of this suit except for a period of about three weeks when she resided with the defendant at Mt. Storm, West Virginia; that defendant has left Mt. Storm, West Virginia, and his present whereabouts are unknown although complainant has made every reasonable effort to learn where he is now residing; that complainant believes defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and does not reside therein.

The relief prayed in the bill of complaint is substantially as follows: that the marriage between the parties may be annulled, declared void and set aside; and that complainant may have such other and further relief as the nature of the case may require.

WHEREUPON, it is ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, this 9th day of December, 1963, that complainant cause a copy of this order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 10th day of January, 1964, giving notice to the said non-resident defendant of the object and substance of the bill of complaint and warning him to show cause, if any there may be, on or before the 11th day of February, 1964, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

NELLIE M. ROBERTS, 839 Columbia Avenue, Cumberland, Maryland, Complainant vs. EDWARD J. ROBERTS, Address unknown, Defendant.

NO. 27155 EQUITY

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

This is to give notice that on the 9th day of December, 1963, a bill of complaint was filed in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, by the complainant against the defendant, whose last known address was Mt. Storm, West Virginia, but whose present address is unknown. The petition alleges in substance that the parties were married at Cumberland, Maryland, on July 13, 1963; that prior to and at the time of the marriage defendant did not intend to perform his marital obligations and did not inform complainant thereof but on the contrary fraudulently induced complainant to enter into the marriage knowing that he would not permit the marriage to be consummated; that the alleged marriage has never been consummated because of defendant's refusal; that complainant has been a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, for more than two years prior to the bringing of this suit except for a period of about three weeks when she resided with the defendant at Mt. Storm, West Virginia; that defendant has left Mt. Storm, West Virginia, and his present whereabouts are unknown although complainant has made every reasonable effort to learn where he is now residing; that complainant believes defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and does not reside therein.

The relief prayed in the bill of complaint is substantially as follows: that the marriage between the parties may be annulled, declared void and set aside; and that complainant may have such other and further relief as the nature of the case may require.

WHEREUPON, it is ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, this 9th day of December, 1963, that complainant cause a copy of this order to be inserted in a newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 10th day of January, 1964, giving notice to the said non-resident defendant of the object and substance of the bill of complaint and warning him to show cause, if any there may be, on or before the 11th day of February, 1964, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

More Snow Falls, More Is Forecast

SRC Crew Working To Clear Highways

Garrett County and the western portion of Allegany County received several inches of new snow yesterday and more is forecast today for this part of the state.

Crews from the State Roads Commission were out in Garrett County last night working on several bad spots which were caused by strong winds.

One highway in Garrett County, U. S. Route 219 south of Oakland, was closed for a short time yesterday morning because of drifting snow, but SRC crews soon had it open. However, it did force several school buses heading for Northern High School to turn back.

Allegany County received several inches of new snow yesterday and in some places in the county have eight inches of snow on the ground.

All highways and roads in Allegany County were reported clear last night but the SRC did have patrols out in case any bad spots developed. In Garrett, the SRC had five pieces of equipment and 10 men out last night applying abrasives and chemicals.

U. S. Route 40 from Grantsville west to the Pennsylvania line was 75 per cent bare last night, Route 219 north of Oakland was 95 per cent bare, Route 219 south was 50 per cent bare, and U. S. 50 was 75 per cent bare.

Portions of nearby West Virginia also has received several inches of snow the past few days and the forecast for that state today calls for snow accumulating from one to three inches. The cold temperatures also are expected to continue for the next two days.

The western portion of Pennsylvania also may receive some light snow today, according to the Weather Bureau.

Wreckage On B&O Cleared

Wreck crews of the B&O Railroad late yesterday afternoon were clearing up the remainder of the wreckage of eight cars of an extra coal train which derailed Monday near Great Cacapon where one of the main tracks was blocked.

Two of the eight coal hoppers jack-knifed and extended across the adjacent tracks in the derailment which occurred at 4 p. m. Local wreck crews cleared the two jack-knifed cars by 6:40 p.m. Monday, according to a railroad spokesman who said the tracks were open by 4:45 p. m. yesterday and the crews were leaving the scene.

Train No. 4588 out of Keyser and headed toward Hagerstown was involved in the derailment. R. H. Priddy, superintendent of the Cumberland Division said it was not necessary to reroute any of trains but three passenger trains were late as a result of the derailment.

The cause of the wreck was blamed on a broken journal on one of the coal hoppers. No one was injured in the derailment.

Higher Voltage Pays Off At Sewage Station

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, was advised yesterday that the 440-volt power system installed early this year at the Frederick Street sewage ejector station is doing an excellent job and in time will more than pay for itself.

William F. Miller, supervisor at the sewage treatment plant, pointed out that early in January the Sterling Electric Company began changing the station from a 220 to a 440 volt system.

He said the job was completed and put into service on March 1 at a cost of $1,440.

Mrs. Roeder was told that during a seven-month period from June 13, 1961, to February 7, 1962, the cost of maintaining the old 220-volt system was $536.97.

There have been no extra costs for maintenance since the new system was placed into service, Mr. Miller reported.

He stressed that in the next few years, the 440-volt system will more than pay for itself while keeping the station running in A-1 condition and doing the job for which it was intended.

The comedy written by George Axelrode will be presented in February.

Library Trustees Want To Accept Lowndes House

The Board of County Commissioners was formally requested last night by the Board of Trustees of the Allegany County Library to accept the bequest of Miss Elizabeth Lowndes of the Lowndes property on Washington Street for use of the library.

Dr. Adam Baer, chairman of the board of trustees, said the library board and county commissioners met jointly and thoroughly discussed the possibilities.

It was generally agreed, he noted, that since the Lowndes property is adjacent to the main library it can be converted into reading rooms and administrative offices for the county library system. The present library annex building, now used as administrative offices, could be abandoned for library use and the county commissioners can utilize it for other county purposes.

County Commissioners Robert Ebert, Louis Shinnamon and Russell Carder agreed that additional space is needed for county offices and the building could be utilized.

The next step is to complete a survey of renovations and improvements which must be made to adapt the property for public use. These figures will be presented to the commissioners and final action can then be taken by them, since they must appropriate funds for remodeling and renovation work, as well as funds to operate the reading rooms and the new annex.

County Yield From Taxes Hits $3,755,712

$43,843 Received During November

Allegany County real estate, personal property and corporation tax collections in the six-months period starting June 1 reached a total of $3,755,712.32 when $43,843.25 was received in November at the office of Francis G. Philpot, county tax collector, at the Court House.

The six-month yield is 96.9 per cent of the $3,873,500 the county commissioners anticipated in the entire fiscal year when they set the tax rate at $2.05 on each $100 of assessed valuation last April. Only $117,787.68 is needed in the next six months to reach that goal.

Mr. Philpot reported that his November collections included $28,573.57 in 1963 county real estate and personal property taxes. Another $15,269.68 came from county corporation taxes. Last month's collections were $1,502.61 less than the $45,345.86 received in November 1962.

$541,834 Ahead

The six-month total in county taxes is a healthy $541,834.71 more than the $3,213,877.61 collected in the corresponding period last year when the tax rate was only $1.85 on each $100 of assessed valuation.

November collections at the Court House also included funds for four special taxing areas of the county. Some $506.23 was received for LaVale, bringing this taxing area's total yield in six months to $17,182 or $3,182 more than the $14,000 anticipated in the entire fiscal year for principal and interest on bonds for the water needs of that community. Cresaptown's November collections were $125.77, sending the six-month total to $4,249.99, just $10.01 shy of the $4,260 needed in the entire fiscal year for water maintenance.

Collections last month at the Court House for Potomac Park reached $39.59, sending the six-month total to $1,043.90, some $43.90 more than was expected in the entire fiscal year street lights and fire protection there.

$61.29 For Mt. Savage

The November yield for Mt. Savage was $61.29, bringing its six-month total to $1,451.37, some $108.63 shy of the $1,560 needed in the entire fiscal year for street lights in Mt. Savage.

Mr. Philpot's office also collected $13,774.99 in 1963 state taxes, including $2,161.13 from real estate and personal property and $11,613.86 from corporations.

A considerable amount in 1962 county and state taxes continues to come to the Court House. November collections included $1,973.41 in 1962 county real estate and personal property taxes, $827.04 in 1962 county corporation taxes, $167.23 in 1962 state real estate and personal property taxes and $106.77 in 1962 state corporation taxes.

Monthly county tax collections for the past two years, with the 1962 total listed first in each case:

June — $2,803,842.42 and $3,322,755.22; July — $118,915.56 and $137,057.84; August — $123,394.86 and $115,237.76; September — $69,660.81 and $66,238.78; October —$52,718.10 and $70,579.47, and November — $45,345.86 and $43,843.25.

Interest of one and one-half per cent is charged on 1963 county and state taxes paid in December. The rate increased one-half per cent per month, beginning in October.

Thruway Bridge Contract Will Be Advertised

Span, Interchange Ramp Included

Another Cumberland Thruway contract, the Willowbrook Road bridge and the interchange, is set up to be advertised next Tuesday, according to John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer for the State Roads Commission.

The contract will call for the construction of the interchange ramp at the intersection of Baltimore Avenue, Willowbrook Road and U. S. Route 40, for the bridge, and for the relocation of city utilities in the area.

Mr. Bushby said plans call for advertising early next year for the four-lane dual highway which will carry the Thruway from the Willowbrook Road bridge to Maryland Avenue.

Bridge Work Begins

Next year will also see the completion of another Thruway bridge project — the span which will carry traffic from the Industrial Boulevard segment of the Thruway over the B&O tracks at Wineow Street.

This contract was awarded to the J. C. Langenfelder Company, Baltimore, for more than $1,000,000, calls for the construction of steel beam and welded girder bridge and for building of 0.46 miles of dual highway from the intersection of Cresap and Thomas streets to Williams Street.

The road building job has been sub-contracted to the Cumberland Contracting Company, which plans to begin work next spring.

Lengenfelder crews are making progress on laying footers and piers for the bridge and steel for the span is being fabricated.

Completes Project

The Cumberland Contracting Company late this fall completed another Thruway project, which carried the south approach from West Third Street to a point near the Wineow Street underpass at a cost of $448,488.

The Thruway began several years ago with the construction of the new Evitts Creek Bridge.

Another contract extended the dual highway to West Third Street.

The State Roads Commission has included the construction of the Cumberland Thruway from Braddock Road to Maryland Avenue in its new five-year plan. Cost of the 5.56 miles of six-lane highway is estimated at $19,788,000.

Flue Fires Are Doused By Firemen

City firemen were kept busy yesterday having received four calls including three flue fires.

South End firemen were called to 809 Kentucky Avenue at 4:49 p.m. Wood being burned in a stove set the flue on fire, they said.

In the other call at 4:11 p.m. firemen from East Side station extinguished a flue fire at 1334 Shades Lane.

Firemen from Central fire station yesterday morning were called to 517 North Centre Street where fuel in a stove in the front room of the two-story dwelling ignited.

The fire was confined to the stove, according to firemen, who were called at 8:46 a.m. They said the automatic feed apparently stuck in an open position causing the blaze.

Owner of the premises is Antone Struntz who was notified that the electric wiring in the house should be repaired. The dwelling is occupied by Mrs. Dorothy Steinmetz and family, said the local firemen.

Shortly before noon yesterday firemen from East Side station extinguished a flue fire at 725 Bedford Street and were assisted by firemen from Central station.

State Council Adopts Hughes Education Plan

Financing Method Still Unresolved

By ADRIAN SYBOR

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council adopted the Hughes Committee's proposals Tuesday for granting $16.2 million in additional state aid to education.

Approval came after Gov. Tawes announced at a news conference in Annapolis that he too supports the proposals for presentation to the General Assembly next February.

Still unresolved is a specific method for financing the measure, although the council's Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters, headed by Sen. Harry R. Hughes, D-Caroline, said it favored an increase in the state income tax.

The General Assembly's between-sessions study group received 10 reports at its four-hour meeting.

Other Recommendations

Among other recommendations for submission to the legislature were:

—A proposal to make car insurance policies noncancellable for at least six months for nonpayment of premiums, a step signed to strengthen the state's Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

—A statewide fire code, setting up a state fire prevention commission and granting powers of enforcement to the state fire marshal. No statewide fire code now exists.

—Elimination of a state tax on manufacturers' tools and machinery on grounds the state's industrial counties have exempted the equipment from taxation.

—A report on ways of controlling the growth of the state budget.

And another subcommittee report on the Potomac River Basin development plan and conservation and anti-water pollution measures for the Patuxent River.

The Hughes Committee's proposal to boost the state's present $83.6 million education aid program uses a formula based on the number of pupils in a given area. The present formula is based on teachers' salaries. A similar change was rejected

Receives Legion Of Merit

Major General Joseph D. Caldara, right, formerly of Mt. Savage, received the Legion of Merit (2nd Oak Leaf Cluster) from Air Force Vice Chief of Staff General William F. McKee during ceremonies held recently at Air Force headquarters in Washington. General Caldara is currently assistant for mutual security, deputy chief of staff, systems and logistics, at Headquarters United States Air Force.

McNamee Hill Water Tank Project Begins

Belt Firm Will Put In Piers

Work on the installation of the 100,000 gallon elevated water tank on McNamee Hill is under way, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

The project will alleviate low water pressure conditions which exist on streets in the Baltimore Avenue-Bedford Street region and will make it possible to open up some 80 acres of city and county land in the vicinity of McNamee Hill.

The contract for the erection of the tank was awarded recently to the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, for $35,450.

This is only a fraction of the cost of the project, which is expected to reach some $100,000 when a pumping station, supply lines and the system of water distribution lines to serve the area is completed.

Won't Need Bonds

Mr. Light said the entire cost of the project will be paid from funds received from water revenues and that no bond funds will be needed for the project.

He said the Pittsburgh firm has sub-contracted the piers for the tank to Carl Belt, Inc., which moved into the area yesterday after city survey crews staked out the project.

The tank will be erected on McNamee Hill at a point on the top of the hill to the east of the intersection of Fectig Avenue and Frederick Street.

The site for the project was conveyed to the city by the County Commissioners.

Much but not all of the 80 acres of land which can be supplied with water as a result of the construction of the tank is suitable for development.

Is First Phase

The project is expected to be scheduled in three phases. The first calls for the installation of the tank and a pumping station.

The second phase will include the laying of water lines to connect the tank with water transmission lines in the Baltimore Avenue section.

The final stage calls for the connections to water lines in the Bedford Road section, which is not developing as fast as it could due to the lack of adequate water pressure.

Specific areas which are expected to benefit from the tank are the north side of Bedford Road, McNamee Hill, streets in the Baltimore Avenue section and land in the vicinity of Monroe, Weber and Marion streets.

Water pressure in the area to be served is generally unsatisfactory since it is too near the elevation of the Fort Hill reservoir.

It will take some time to complete the third phase since plans call for developing a network of lines designed to provide adequate pressure to all streets in the area.

This will call for replacing certain lines installed many years ago and which are inadequate to supply today's water needs.

Some of the present lines which are adequate will cut out of the new grid served by the tank to avoid excessive water pressure.

Much of the line extension work will be accomplished by Water Department crews as time is available.

Man Is Jailed For Contempt

George Arbogast, 65, of 436 Goethe Street, yesterday was remanded to Allegany County Jail by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey for contempt of court for alleged failure to keep up alimony payments to the wife whom he divorced more than 11 years ago.

Mrs. Bernice M. Arbogast was granted a divorce from George Arbogast on February 27, 1952. She was given the right to resume use of her maiden name of Bernice M. Keplinger and he was ordered to make semi-monthly alimony payments of $60.

When Arbogast, a railroader, reached retirement age of 65, the decree was amended by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris by order dated November 4. His alimony payments were reduced to $37.50 semi-montly but he also was ordered to pay an additional $15 semi-monthly until his arrearage of $135 had been paid.

Yesterday's contempt hearing was ordered after the former wife petitioned that she had not received alimony payments since the signing of the amended decree.

When Arbogast refused to make payments at yesterday's hearing, Judge Cobey found him guilty of contempt and placed him in the custody of Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein until he is "purged" of contempt.

More Snow Falls, More Is Forecast

SRC Crew Working To Clear Highways

Garrett County and the western portion of Allegany County received several inches of new snow yesterday and more is forecast today for this part of the state.

Crews from the State Roads Commission were out in Garrett County last night working on several bad spots which were caused by strong winds.

One highway in Garrett County, U. S. Route 219 south of Oakland, was closed for a short time yesterday morning because of drifting snow, but SRC crews soon had it open. However, it did force several school buses heading for Northern High School to turn back.

Allegany County received several inches of new snow yesterday and in some places in the county have eight inches of snow on the ground.

All highways and roads in Allegany County were reported clear last night but the SRC did have patrols out in case any bad spots developed. In Garrett, the SRC had five pieces of equipment and 10 men out last night applying abrasives and chemicals.

U. S. Route 40 from Grantsville west to the Pennsylvania line was 75 per cent bare last night, Route 219 north of Oakland was 95 per cent bare, Route 219 south was 50 per cent bare, and U. S. 50 was 75 per cent bare.

Portions of nearby West Virginia also has received several inches of snow the past few days and the forecast for that state today calls for snow accumulating from one to three inches. The cold temperatures also are expected to continue for the next two days.

The western portion of Pennsylvania also may receive some light snow today, according to the Weather Bureau.

Collections last month at the Court House for Potomac Park reached $39.59, sending the six-month total to $1,043.90, some $43.90 more than was expected in the entire fiscal year street lights and fire protection there.

$61.29 For Mt. Savage

The November yield for Mt. Savage was $61.29, bringing its six-month total to $1,451.37, some $108.63 shy of the $1,560 needed in the entire fiscal year for street lights in Mt. Savage.

Mr. Philpot's office also collected $13,774.99 in 1963 state taxes, including $2,161.13 from real estate and personal property and $11,613.86 from corporations.

A considerable amount in 1962 county and state taxes continues to come to the Court House. November collections included $1,973.41 in 1962 county real estate and personal property taxes, $827.04 in 1962 county corporation taxes, $167.23 in 1962 state real estate and personal property taxes and $106.77 in 1962 state corporation taxes.

Monthly county tax collections for the past two years, with the 1962 total listed first in each case:

June — $2,803,842.42 and $3,322,755.22; July — $118,915.56 and $137,057.84; August — $123,394.86 and $115,237.76; September — $69,660.81 and $66,238.78; October —$52,718.10 and $70,579.47, and November — $45,345.86 and $43,843.25.

Interest of one and one-half per cent is charged on 1963 county and state taxes paid in December. The rate increased one-half per cent per month, beginning in October.

Thruway Bridge Contract Will Be Advertised

Span, Interchange Ramp Included

Another Cumberland Thruway contract, the Willowbrook Road bridge and the interchange, is set up to be advertised next Tuesday, according to John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer for the State Roads Commission.

The contract will call for the construction of the interchange ramp at the intersection of Baltimore Avenue, Willowbrook Road and U. S. Route 40, for the bridge, and for the relocation of city utilities in the area.

Mr. Bushby said plans call for advertising early next year for the four-lane dual highway which will carry the Thruway from the Willowbrook Road bridge to Maryland Avenue.

Bridge Work Begins

Next year will also see the completion of another Thruway bridge project — the span which will carry traffic from the Industrial Boulevard segment of the Thruway over the B&O tracks at Wineow Street.

This contract was awarded to the J. C. Langenfelder Company, Baltimore, for more than $1,000,000, calls for the construction of steel beam and welded girder bridge and for building of 0.46 miles of dual highway from the intersection of Cresap and Thomas streets to Williams Street.

The road building job has been sub-contracted to the Cumberland Contracting Company, which plans to begin work next spring.

Lengenfelder crews are making progress on laying footers and piers for the bridge and steel for the span is being fabricated.

Completes Project

The Cumberland Contracting Company late this fall completed another Thruway project, which carried the south approach from West Third Street to a point near the Wineow Street underpass at a cost of $448,488.

The Thruway began several years ago with the construction of the new Evitts Creek Bridge.

Another contract extended the dual highway to West Third Street.

The State Roads Commission has included the construction of the Cumberland Thruway from Braddock Road to Maryland Avenue in its new five-year plan. Cost of the 5.56 miles of six-lane highway is estimated at $19,788,000.

Flue Fires Are Doused By Firemen

City firemen were kept busy yesterday having received four calls including three flue fires.

South End firemen were called to 809 Kentucky Avenue at 4:49 p.m. Wood being burned in a stove set the flue on fire, they said.

In the other call at 4:11 p.m. firemen from East Side station extinguished a flue fire at 1334 Shades Lane.

Firemen from Central fire station yesterday morning were called to 517 North Centre Street where fuel in a stove in the front room of the two-story dwelling ignited.

The fire was confined to the stove, according to firemen, who were called at 8:46 a.m. They said the automatic feed apparently stuck in an open position causing the blaze.

Owner of the premises is Antone Struntz who was notified that the electric wiring in the house should be repaired. The dwelling is occupied by Mrs. Dorothy Steinmetz and family, said the local firemen.

Shortly before noon yesterday firemen from East Side station extinguished a flue fire at 725 Bedford Street and were assisted by firemen from Central station.

State Council Adopts Hughes Education Plan

Financing Method Still Unresolved

By ADRIAN SYBOR

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council adopted the Hughes Committee's proposals Tuesday for granting $16.2 million in additional state aid to education.

Approval came after Gov. Tawes announced at a news conference in Annapolis that he too supports the proposals for presentation to the General Assembly next February.

Still unresolved is a specific method for financing the measure, although the council's Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters, headed by Sen. Harry R. Hughes, D-Caroline, said it favored an increase in the state income tax.

The General Assembly's between-sessions study group received 10 reports at its four-hour meeting.

Other Recommendations

Among other recommendations for submission to the legislature were:

—A proposal to make car insurance policies noncancellable for at least six months for nonpayment of premiums, a step signed to strengthen the state's Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

—A statewide fire code, setting up a state fire prevention commission and granting powers of enforcement to the state fire marshal. No statewide fire code now exists.

—Elimination of a state tax on manufacturers' tools and machinery on grounds the state's industrial counties have exempted the equipment from taxation.

—A report on ways of controlling the growth of the state budget.

And another subcommittee report on the Potomac River Basin development plan and conservation and anti-water pollution measures for the Patuxent River.

The Hughes Committee's proposal to boost the state's present $83.6 million education aid program uses a formula based on the number of pupils in a given area. The present formula is based on teachers' salaries. A similar change was rejected

McNamee Hill Water Tank Project Begins

Belt Firm Will Put In Piers

Work on the installation of the 100,000 gallon elevated water tank on McNamee Hill is under way, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

The project will alleviate low water pressure conditions which exist on streets in the Baltimore Avenue-Bedford Street region and will make it possible to open up some 80 acres of city and county land in the vicinity of McNamee Hill.

The contract for the erection of the tank was awarded recently to the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, for $35,450.

This is only a fraction of the cost of the project, which is expected to reach some $100,000 when a pumping station, supply lines and the system of water distribution lines to serve the area is completed.

Won't Need Bonds

Mr. Light said the entire cost of the project will be paid from funds received from water revenues and that no bond funds will be needed for the project.

He said the Pittsburgh firm has sub-contracted the piers for the tank to Carl Belt, Inc., which moved into the area yesterday after city survey crews staked out the project.

The tank will be erected on McNamee Hill at a point on the top of the hill to the east of the intersection of Fectig Avenue and Frederick Street.

The site for the project was conveyed to the city by the County Commissioners.

Much but not all of the 80 acres of land which can be supplied with water as a result of the construction of the tank is suitable for development.

Is First Phase

The project is expected to be scheduled in three phases. The first calls for the installation of the tank and a pumping station.

The second phase will include the laying of water lines to connect the tank with water transmission lines in the Baltimore Avenue section.

The final stage calls for the connections to water lines in the Bedford Road section, which is not developing as fast as it could due to the lack of adequate water pressure.

Specific areas which are expected to benefit from the tank are the north side of Bedford Road, McNamee Hill, streets in the Baltimore Avenue section and land in the vicinity of Monroe, Weber and Marion streets.

Water pressure in the area to be served is generally unsatisfactory since it is too near the elevation of the Fort Hill reservoir.

It will take some time to complete the third phase since plans call for developing a network of lines designed to provide adequate pressure to all streets in the area.

This will call for replacing certain lines installed many years ago and which are inadequate to supply today's water needs.

Some of the present lines which are adequate will cut out of the new grid served by the tank to avoid excessive water pressure.

Much of the line extension work will be accomplished by Water Department crews as time is available.

Man Is Jailed For Contempt

George Arbogast, 65, of 436 Goethe Street, yesterday was remanded to Allegany County Jail by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey for contempt of court for alleged failure to keep up alimony payments to the wife whom he divorced more than 11 years ago.

Mrs. Bernice M. Arbogast was granted a divorce from George Arbogast on February 27, 1952. She was given the right to resume use of her maiden name of Bernice M. Keplinger and he was ordered to make semi-monthly alimony payments of $60.

When Arbogast, a railroader, reached retirement age of 65, the decree was amended by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris by order dated November 4. His alimony payments were reduced to $37.50 semi-montly but he also was ordered to pay an additional $15 semi-monthly until his arrearage of $135 had been paid.

Yesterday's contempt hearing was ordered after the former wife petitioned that she had not received alimony payments since the signing of the amended decree.

When Arbogast refused to make payments at yesterday's hearing, Judge Cobey found him guilty of contempt and placed him in the custody of Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein until he is "purged" of contempt.
